CLEMSON VS. MIAMI (FL)

Tigers Open ACC Play

Today's game between Clemson and #16 Miami (FL) is the ACC-opener for both schools. Both teams have been involved in great non-conference matchups against ranked opponents on the road, so they are battle-tested. The Tigers have faced a top-15 Auburn team, while the Hurricanes played at Ohio State and at Pittsburgh.

But now it is on to ACC play, which brings a different level of intensity because the stakes are higher. This game will have a direct effect on the ACC standings and who will get to play in the ACC Championship game in Charlotte, NC in December.

Last year's game was a classic, with the Tigers winning 40-37 in overtime in Miami Gardens. It was the third straight overtime meeting between the two schools. In fact, all three meetings between the two teams as league members have gone at least one extra session. It is one of only two series in the nation that have had three straight overtime games. The other is Central Michigan against Eastern Michigan, as those two schools played three straight overtime games between 2004-06.

This is the latest start to the ACC schedule for the Tigers since 1982 (October 9 at Virginia). The Miami game will be the first of eight straight ACC contests on eight straight Saturdays. It will be the first time since the 2003 season that Clemson plays eight straight ACC games and the first time in history Clemson will play eight league opponents in eight consecutive weeks. In the past, Clemson has always had an open date during a run of eight straight league games.

Meeting of Top-Two Recruiting Classes in 2008

When Clemson and Miami (FL) play today, it will be a meeting of programs who had the top-two recruiting classes in the nation in February of 2008 according to ESPN.com. The Hurricanes signed 12 of the top-150 players in that class according to ESPN.com and Clemson had 10, meaning the two schools signed 22 of the top-150 prospects, or almost 15 percent.

In 2010, those players are now either red-shirt sophomores or juniors and give both programs optimism for the future. Nine of the 10 Tigers on that list from 2008 are still with the program, while 10 of the 12 Miami players are expected to travel to this weekend's game at Clemson.

When you look at the list of Tigers on the following chart, it looks like ESPN.com knew what they were talking about. Da'Quan Bowers is one of Clemson's top defensive players and is coming off a career-high four tackles for loss at #15 Auburn on September 18. Jamie Harper became the first Tiger running back in eight years to catch two touchdown passes in the Auburn game, while Andre Ellington is second in the ACC in rushing after a 140-yard effort at Auburn. Dwayne Allen is Clemson's top receiver from the tight end position. And what else do we need to say about Kyle Parker, who is already sixth in Clemson history in career touchdown passes (26) in just 17 games at the quarterback position.

Below is a list of the top-150 players from the signing class of 2008 for both teams who are still with their respective programs.

Clemson Successful on Homecoming

Saturday will be Homecoming at Clemson when Miami (FL) comes to town. It has historically been a celebration that has included a Tiger victory 76 percent of the time since its first Homecoming in 1922. Clemson has an overall record of 64-19-3 (.761) in its first 86 Homecoming games. That includes a 34-3-2 record (.897) in Homecoming games since the 1971 season.

The first Homecoming game at Clemson was in the 1922 season, a 21-0 loss to Centre. The Tigers were actually 0-4-1 through their first five Homecoming games, so it is surprising that the tradition continued. Clemson defeated Auburn in 1927 by a score of 3-0 for its first Homecoming triumph.

Clemson and Miami (FL) will both play their ACC-openers today at Memorial Stadium. Each of the last three games in the series has gone to overtime.

There is no record of a Homecoming game in 1930 or 1938, but the event has been held in conjunction with a football game every year since 1939, even through the war years.

Clemson has just three losses on Homecoming since 1971. Georgia Tech upset #14 Clemson 30-14 in Danny Ford's final year as head coach in 1989. That was the last loss for Ford at Clemson and the only time he lost a Homecoming game in 11 years as Clemson's head coach. Georgia Tech went on to a 7-4 season in 1989, then won the national title the following year.

The Tigers' other two losses on Homecoming since 1971 took place in 1997 to Virginia and in 2001 to North Carolina. Clemson's eight-game winning streak on Homecoming includes two wins over top-25 teams and five wins over ACC teams.

McDaniel Records 12th Career Interception

All-America safety DeAndre McDaniel had a strong game in the Tigers' narrow loss at #15 Auburn on September 18. McDaniel had five tackles, a tackle for loss, and an interception. The pick was the 12th of his career and his 13th career takeaway.

McDaniel is tied for fifth in school history in career interceptions with Eddie Geathers (1977-80), Robert O'Neal (1989-92), Alex Ardley (1998-00), and Brian Mance (1999-02). Mance is on the Clemson staff now as a player development assistant with the strength training department.

The Tiger interception record is 17, set by the legendary Terry Kinard, who was the 1982 national defensive player-of-the-year and is a member of the Clemson Ring of Honor. McDaniel, who had eight interceptions last year, is five short of tying that record that has stood for 28 years.

McDaniel has 14 career tackles for loss and 12 career interceptions, an example of his all-around abilities as a defender. The only other two Tigers on record with double-figures in tackles for loss and interceptions are Donnell Woolford (1985-88), who had 12 tackles for loss and 10 interceptions, and Michael Hamlin (2005-08), who had 12 tackles for loss and 14 interceptions.

Replacing C.J. Spiller

The big question for Head Coach Dabo Swinney during the offseason was, "How are you going to replace C.J. Spiller?" Spiller was the unanimous first-team All-America all-purpose player last year when he gained an ACC-record 2,680 all-purpose yards and finished second in NCAA history in career all-purpose yards.

Swinney said it would take three or four players to take his place. That formula has worked fine so far. Andre Ellington is averaging 91.0 rushing yards per game, ahead of Spiller's 86.6-yard average last year, and gaining 7.4 yards per carry, ahead of Spiller's 5.6-yard average in 2009.

In terms of catching passes out of the backfield, which Spiller did at a record rate for a Tiger running back, Jamie

Harper has five receptions for 59 yards, but three have gone for touchdowns, including two at #15 Auburn. One was a 24-yard diving catch that was among the top plays in college football for games on the weekend of September 18. He became the first running back to catch two touchdown passes in one game since the 2002 season, when Chad Jasmin had two at North Carolina. Therefore, Harper has already done something that Spiller never accomplished.

In terms of kick returns, Marcus Gilchrist is ninth in the nation in punt returns (18.3). It is not ahead of Spiller's average of 26.3 yards per punt return last year, but still a very strong average. Gilchrist has a 23.3-yard average on four kickoff returns as well.

Swinney Third Nationally in APR

According to research compiled by the website NCAAFootballFanHouse.com from data provided by the NCAA, Dabo Swinney is third in the nation in terms of APR scores for the Clemson program since he took over as head coach in 2008. The website captured data for the entering classes from 2003-04 through 2008-09, but it is specific to each coach.

In 2003, the NCAA created the APR to monitor academic progress of its member institutions. The APR is a formula that takes into account semester-by-semester academic progress in terms of eligibility and retention rates for scholarship student-athletes. The study includes APR scores at previous schools for a head coach who changes jobs.

Swinney's program has had an APR score of 982 for his three years as head coach (2008 season was included in the study), trailing only the 985 by Troy Calhoun (Air Force) and Pat Fitzgerald (Northwestern). Greg Schiano (Rutgers) is fourth at 981 and Paul Johnson (Georgia Tech) is fifth at 980.

The ACC was the top FBS conference represented, with six current coaches among the nation's top 11. Miami (FL) Head Coach Randy Shannon is seventh in the study with a 975 score. The average score for the ACC head coaches is 964. The average score for all coaches across the nation is 934.

SAFETY

DeANDRE McDANIEL

There are some football players that strike fear into the hearts of opponents. Players with the speed, strength, athleticism, and instincts that wreak havoc on the gridiron can be an opposing coach's nightmare. Those are the ones who get special attention when the gameplan is being formulated every week. Those are the ones the opposing team seeks out on each and every snap. Those are the ones whom teammates look to for leadership and fans look to for highlights.

That provides a nice description of what DeAndre McDaniel means to the Tiger football team. In four years, he has transformed himself from a raw, talented, prep school product to one of the best safeties in the nation. It is well-known in coaching circles that, in order to move the football on the Clemson defense, McDaniel must be neutralized, a task that often proves futile.

"Every time I go out on the field, I try to make plays," he said. "I know we have other guys who can step up, too. I'm just trying to do my job and help my teammates."

Many pundits predicted his path to stardom early in his high school career, as he was a highly-regarded prospect coming out of Amos P. Godby High School in Tallahassee, FL. Then-Assistant Coach Dabo Swinney recruited McDaniel to Clemson, and the relationship formed during the last two years of his high school career continues to develop to this day. A host of major college football powers offered McDaniel a scholarship, including his hometown school (Florida State). In the end, he chose the Tigers over Alabama, Auburn, Florida, Louisville, and the Seminoles.

When he signed with the Tigers on National Signing Day in February of 2006, McDaniel soon found out that the process of getting to play Division I football was not over yet. Academic issues forced the four-star recruit to Hargrave Military Academy, where he fine-tuned his game while establishing a work ethic academically that has followed him to Clemson. He has learned to appreciate his class work, as he is now just a few hours shy of receiving his degree in December.

"Up to that point, I really didn't care all that much about my classes," he admitted. "My semester (at Hargrave) really showed me that I needed to take my school work seriously. I knew that if I wanted to get to where I wanted to be, my grades needed to improve. So I worked hard there, and I'm still working hard at it."

Once he arrived at Clemson, McDaniel was able to make an immediate impact at the back of a defense that featured future NFL players Michael Hamlin and Chris Clemons. In his debut, a nationally-televised Labor Day contest against #19 Florida State, he played 39 snaps and totaled four tackles and two pass breakups. It was an experience that will remain with him forever, as the Tigers came away with a 24-18 victory.

"The atmosphere was incredible," recalled #2. "Some of the older players told me that rubbing the Rock and running down the Hill for the first time, with the crowd going crazy and the stadium rocking, is an unforgettable experience. They were right."

"It was a good night. I didn't have too much trouble adjusting to the speed. I went out there and played my game."

That night was the first of many quality experiences for McDaniel against his hometown team. In his sophomore season, he had a strong five-tackle performance in his first contest in Tallahassee since high school. Then in 2009, McDaniel registered nine tackles and one interception in 73 snaps that helped cement his place in Clemson lore.

Late in the fourth quarter, Florida State was attempting to mount a drive to cut into Clemson's nine-point lead. Christian Ponder threw a pass toward the Seminole sideline that McDaniel broke on perfectly and intercepted. As he ran down the sideline for 27 yards, the Tiger safety saw Ponder running towards him and, as he pointed his finger at the Seminoles' signal-caller, he immediately knew how the play would end.

"When I caught the ball and started running, I thought I was going to score," explained McDaniel. "Then I saw one of their guys running ahead of me, so I knew I wasn't going to get there. I saw him (Ponder) and I knew it was him and me. I honestly don't know why I pointed. I guess it was the emotion. I just hit him."

Ponder separated his shoulder and missed the remainder of the 2009 season. McDaniel became a YouTube sensation as the clip of his ferocious hit made the rounds on the internet. The two players saw each other at the ACC Football Kickoff in Greensboro, NC in July.

"I talked with him at the Kickoff," stated McDaniel. "I never wanted to hurt him. He is a great guy and a terrific quarterback. It was just part of the game."

That play is, in many ways, a microcosm of McDaniel's career...a solid player in coverage who packs a punch when he delivers a blow. His tackling ability was part of the reason that McDaniel was moved to linebacker prior to his sophomore season.

The move was made for several reasons. The Tigers needed some depth at linebacker in 2008, and the coaches saw McDaniel's versatility and identified him as a player who could contribute there effectively. It was also an effort to get McDaniel on the field, and since he was listed behind Hamlin and Clemons at safety, playing linebacker seemed like a way to increase his snap count.

"I wasn't mad about it," said McDaniel. "I always felt like a safety. I've played there my whole life and I'm comfortable there. It took a while to get used to linebacker."

Despite some misgivings about the position switch, McDaniel continued to produce. He amassed 77 tackles and started eight games, including the last six of the season. He also forced two fumbles and returned one for a touchdown in the Gator Bowl against Nebraska.

When Defensive Coordinator Kevin Steele took over the defense after the 2008 season, he moved McDaniel back to safety in order to ease the transition after Hamlin and Clemons graduated. McDaniel stepped in and made his presence felt immediately with 14 tackles and an interception against Middle Tennessee, then had 10 tackles and two picks at #13 Georgia Tech. He also had two interceptions in Clemson's overtime win at #8 Miami (FL), one of which he returned 23 yards for a score. For that performance, he was named the winner of the Bronko Nagurski National Defensive Player-of-the-Week award.

McDaniel finished the 2009 season with 102 tackles, including five for loss, and eight interceptions. His performance was enough for the Football Writers' Association to tab him as a first-team All-American, the first Tiger defensive back with that distinction since first-round draft pick Tye Hill in 2005. He had over 100 tackles and eight interceptions, the only player in the nation with triple-digits in tackles and at least eight picks.

After last season, McDaniel flirted with the NFL draft before deciding to return and finish what he started at Clemson, both on and off the field.

"My grandma really wanted me to come back and get my degree," he said. "I want to be a role model for my younger siblings. I also want to win a championship here. That's another reason I came back."

McDaniel entered the 2010 campaign as a candidate for first-team All-America honors once again. He has established himself as one of the premier defensive players, regardless of position, in all of college football. He is on the watch list for the Thorpe and Nagurski awards, which will be given after the season. Many pundits have McDaniel projected as a first-round draft pick in the spring of 2011.

McDaniel has gotten off to a solid start this season. He has a team-leading 20 tackles and three pass breakups. At #15 Auburn, McDaniel showcased his athletic ability with a soaring interception, his first of the season and 12th as a Tiger.

If the senior safety has his way, there will be many more highlights to come as he attempts to leave his mark on Clemson University.

DeAndre McDaniel, who earned Clemson's 2009 Defensive Tiger Pride Award, has a team-high 20 tackles and an interception in 2010.

CORNERBACK BYRON MAXWELL

In college football, consistency is the key to winning football games. Coaches want their teams to play with the same level of intensity every single week. They also want their players to be consistent in the way they perform.

One player who knows what it takes to be consistent is graduate cornerback Byron Maxwell. The North Charleston, SC native has never missed a game in his college career. However, Maxwell had to overcome some obstacles before becoming the Tigers' starting cornerback.

Maxwell tore his ACL during his senior year at Fort Dorchester High School, causing him to miss his final season with the Patriots.

"It was tough having to miss an entire football season, but I had support, so it turned out ok," he said.

Despite the injury, Maxwell was still a highly-rated prospect coming out of high school. He ended up choosing Clemson over Georgia, South Carolina, and several other programs. Maxwell said he picked the Tigers because of their tradition.

"It was the Hill more than anything and the tradition that comes with Clemson," added Maxwell.

The injury continued to affect Maxwell after arriving at Clemson and he red-shirted in his first season (2006) as he continued to recover from the torn ACL.

"It wasn't that difficult red-shirting that year because I knew I was going to red-shirt coming into the season," #36 admitted. "It was harder playing the next season in 2007 after having not played competitive football in almost two years."

In 2007, Maxwell was finally able to get back on the field for the first time in two years. He played 17 snaps and recorded a pass breakup in his first game as a Tiger in the season-opener against #19 Florida State.

During the 2007 season, Maxwell recorded at least three tackles six times, including a season-high six tackles and two tackles for loss against #21 Auburn in the Chick-fil-A Bowl. For the 2007 season, he played double-figure snaps in every game and recorded 27 tackles, including four tackles for loss, four pass breakups, and a sack.

Maxwell continued to excel in 2008. He recorded at least three tackles in all but three games and totaled five or more tackles in six of the 12 games. Maxwell led all non-starters in tackles (54) that season, including three tackles for loss and four pass breakups.

He tallied 21 of his 54 tackles on special teams, which led the team, and was named the team's special teams player-of-the-week three times. His best performance of the 2008 season came in a 13-3 victory at Virginia when he registered a career-high eight tackles with two tackles for loss and received defensive player-of-the-week honors from the coaches.

In 2009, Maxwell again led the team in special teams tackles with 15. Entering the 2009 season, Maxwell had not recorded an interception in his career. He was able to change that against Florida State. The Seminoles had the ball and faced a second-and-11 on their own 16 with less than 2:00 remaining in the first half. Christian Ponder attempted to throw a pass when it was intercepted by Maxwell. His interception return gave Clemson the ball on the Seminole 24, which set up the Tigers with good field position late in the first half.

Byron Maxwell recorded his first career interception (right) in the Tigers' 40-24 victory over Florida State in 2009.

Byron Maxwell has been one of the Tigers' top special teams players over the past four seasons. He has 40 career special teams tackles, just seven shy of the Clemson record.

The following week, Maxwell picked off another pass at N.C. State to add to his total. Only DeAndre McDaniel (8) and Rashard Hall (6) had as many or more interceptions for the season. He also recorded 36 tackles for the year, with a tackle for loss and five pass breakups.

Throughout his first three active seasons, Maxwell played behind a pair of talented cornerbacks. Crezdon Butler and Chris Chancellor both had solid college careers and made it to the NFL. Maxwell was able to learn from both during his college career.

"I am trying to be a leader like they were," said Maxwell. "But the biggest thing I learned was how to handle the ups and downs."

Maxwell believes waiting also helped him be more prepared for a starting role. "Seeing how Crezdon and Chris handled being a college football player really helped. In high school, no one really makes plays on you, but they do in college and you have to learn to deal with that."

Entering the 2010 season, he had played 937 snaps despite never having started a game. However, he became the starter at cornerback this season and shined in his first game in a starting role. Maxwell forced a fumble on Clemson's first kickoff of the season against North Texas. He was also able to prevent the Mean Green from putting more points on the scoreboard in the fourth quarter.

With just under seven minutes to play in the game and the Tigers leading 35-10, the Mean Green drove down the field. On third-and-goal from the Clemson seven, Nathan Tune threw a pass that Maxwell picked off in the endzone and downed for a touchback. It was a textbook way to play the fade pattern, as he got good position, fended off the receiver, spotted the ball, and snatched it out of the air.

"It was a good way to start the season off right," he said about the interception.

Maxwell finished the game with six tackles in addition to the caused fumble and interception.

Two games later at #15 Auburn, Maxwell put a punishing hit on Onterio McCalebb in overtime, knocking him out cold. McCalebb laid on the field for several minutes but turned out to be ok.

"I knew it was a pretty good hit but I didn't know when it happened that he was knocked out," admitted Maxwell. "I was thinking about the next play."

McCalebb was Auburn's leading rusher in the game but was unavailable for Auburn's third-and-six play in overtime, on which Cameron Newton threw an incomplete pass and forced Auburn to kick a field goal. Maxwell turned in a solid performance in the game with five tackles.

In three games this season, Maxwell has recorded 14 tackles with an interception. He has also now played in 43 consecutive games in his career.

"That means a lot to me, because I think there were some questions about my durability after the injury," stated Maxwell. "But I have shown that I am going to be out there every game."

At 6'1" and 205 pounds, he is one of the bigger cornerbacks in the country and has drawn interest from NFL scouts because of his size. However, Maxwell said you still have to be able to play regardless of how big you are.

"If you're big and slow, they won't take you, so you still have to be able to play."

In August of 2010, Maxwell graduated from Clemson with a degree in sociology.

"It meant a lot (to get my diploma), because that's something that I will always have and no one can ever take that away from me," smiled Maxwell.

Maxwell is not sure exactly what his plans are for the future, but he would like to remain involved in football as a coach or scout. His main goal for this season, though, is to be productive.

"When I leave, I want to be able to say that during my first season starting, I really did some good things."

Byron Maxwell graduated this past August with a degree in sociology. He is one of six Tigers on the 2010 squad who has graduated from Clemson.

OFFENSIVE GUARD WILSON NORRIS

For a senior who chose Clemson over Maryland, North Carolina, N.C. State, and South Carolina, Wilson Norris described the easy choice as "the chance of a lifetime."

In addition to the "chance of a lifetime," he said, "Clemson is close to home in Pickens (SC), and being close to my family and friends was important when choosing a school."

His 2010 season is off to a slow start, as the park & protected area management major is unable to play as a result of a torn ACL suffered during spring practice.

"We were running a zone play to the right and the cornerback blitzed from that side," explained #64. "When he went to make the tackle on the running back in the backfield, the cornerback arm-tackled him, swung around, and landed on my knee."

Norris hopes to get back on the field in November.

The torn ACL on March 31 came just two weeks before the birth of his daughter. "The injury made me start thinking about the future, even though I was devastated this happened to me for the second time."

However, Norris has remained in good spirits, because he knows things could be a lot worse. He stated that rehab on his knee is slow primarily due to previous injuries.

"It has been a challenge to deal with a lot of pain and discomfort," he admitted. "It is a lot harder to get better when you have injured your knee so many times previously. We have concentrated on rebuilding strength and muscle."

Before Norris was injured, his contributions to the matured offensive line were significant. "We have a lot of special guys on the offensive line, and those are some of my best friends," said Norris. "There was not much confidence in us when we were freshmen, but I believe we have earned our respect. Coach (Brad) Scott deserves a lot of credit for that. In my opinion, he is the best coach around."

During the 2009 season, Norris was on the field for more than half of the eight games and played 94 snaps, seven of which ended in knockdown blocks. His season-best grade came against N.C. State when he turned in an 83-percent grade and helped the Tigers to a 20-point victory. He was a key reserve in Clemson's drive to the ACC Atlantic Division title and a final top-25 national ranking.

Two seasons ago in 2008, his first year on the field in a Tiger uniform, Norris earned an average film grade of 74 percent. He played 61 snaps and had five knockdowns. Eight of those snaps came at #24 Florida State.

In 2007, his first year at Clemson, he red-shirted and earned valuable experience on the scout team. Since he has been at Clemson, he has received the Most Improved Player Award.

Before he enrolled at Clemson in 2007, Norris was chosen as a team captain for the Shrine Bowl and played in the Max Emfinger All-American Bowl. That is an example of his leadership skills, which obviously came to the forefront during his high school career.

The 2007 graduate of Pickens High School was rated as the #71 offensive guard in the nation by Scout.com and the #17 player in the state by Rivals.com. As a senior in high school, he was a team captain, while he accumulated over 100 knockdowns in his last two seasons playing for the Blue Flame. At Pickens High, Norris also lettered three times in track & field and threw the shot put and discus.

When he is not on the gridiron, Norris, who is proud to be the first Clemson graduate in his family when he earns his degree next year, enjoys hunting, fishing, or spending time with his wife, Megan, and their four-month-old daughter, Addison.

"Family is the most important thing to me," said Norris.

And just as Norris experienced the Clemson tradition growing up, he'll continue to do the same with his own family.

"I remember going to Clemson games as a kid and being amazed by the atmosphere."

His wife, Megan, is pursuing her nursing degree at Clemson. They met during their freshman year of high school and have been together since.

"She has been my biggest fan and support system," admitted Norris. "She has been there every step of the way."

Upon graduation from Clemson, he plans to work for the Department of Natural Resources as a game warden.

"It has always been my dream job," Norris added. "I just finished an internship with DNR and it has made me even more anxious to begin my career."

JAMES F. BARKER

Clemson University President

Jim Barker has worn nearly every hat possible in his almost five decades as a member of the Clemson family – student, athlete, alumnus, teacher, dean, parent, fan, and president. Of these varied roles, the most important was as a student.

"I often tell people I learned everything from plumbing to poetry in architecture school, and I use every bit of that knowledge as president of Clemson University," Barker said.

A 1970 Clemson graduate, Barker was named president in 1999 with a mandate from the Board of Trustees to lead Clemson into the top ranks of American universities. At his inaugural address in April of 2000, he said, "I am convinced that there is no university in America stronger than Clemson when we are 'One Clemson.' A united Clemson is unstoppable."

During the "One Clemson" decade that followed, the university harnessed the competitive, determined spirit of the Clemson family to transform itself from a respected state institution into one of the nation's finest public universities.

Clemson climbed from #38 to #22 among public universities in the 2010 U.S. News & World Report guide to colleges and has been recognized for value, affordability, and return on investment by Kiplinger's and Smart Money magazine.

During the decade, undergraduate applications soared, Ph.D. enrollment doubled, research awards topped $1.25 billion, and more than 140 grants and contracts along with 60 gifts of $1 million or more were received. Despite severe cuts in its permanent, basic state appropriations, Clemson protected its academic core and competed successfully for the lion's share of the state's highest-achieving students, the Palmetto Fellows, and for tens of millions of dollars in state funding for endowed chairs and research infrastructure.

Clemson University attracts top students and faculty. Fifty percent of the 2009 freshman class graduated in the top-10 percent of their high school classes, and 31 Clemson faculty members received prestigious National Science Foundation Career awards during the previous decade.

The university provides an unmatched educational experience - intellectual development - for students and research-driven economic development for the state of South Carolina.

Barker is a leading voice in higher education for South Carolina and the nation. He served on the NCAA Division I Board of Directors for four years, including three as Chair. He also delivered a keynote address at a symposium in Washington, D.C. on Global Best Practices in Science & Technology Parks sponsored by the U.S. National Academy of Sciences.

For his leadership, Barker has received the Order of the Palmetto, the state of South Carolina's highest civilian honor, and The Cliff's Business Person-of-the-Year Award

2009-10 University Highlights

- A $45 million grant from the U.S. Department of Energy, the largest in Clemson history, to fund a wind-energy test facility at the Restoration Institute in North Charleston, SC. This project puts South Carolina at the center of a growing United States offshore wind-energy industry.
- Two national summits on clean energy and creating jobs in the green economy, sponsored by the Restoration Institute. They were held in Greenville, SC at CU-ICAR (Clemson University International Center for Automotive Research).

DR. TERRY DON PHILLIPS

Clemson University Athletic Director

When Clemson's baseball team reached the Final Four of the 2010 College World Series, it concluded one of the great all-around sports years in school history. In addition to a #4 final ranking in baseball, the Tigers ranked in the top 25 in the nation in football after a bowl victory over Kentucky and won the ACC Atlantic Division title for the first time. The men's basketball team recorded a fourth straight 20-win season, including a win over national finalist Butler, and reached the NCAA Tournament for a record-tying third straight year.

Clemson was one of just eight schools nationally to go to a bowl game, the NCAA Men's Basketball Tournament, and the NCAA Baseball Tournament. It was the second straight year the Tigers accomplished the "high-profile sports triple." Clemson joined Florida State, Minnesota, and Texas as the only four schools to do it in consecutive years.

Reaching a high level of success in the high-profile sports is a credit to the administrative acumen of Clemson Athletic Director Dr. Terry Don Phillips. Now in his ninth year leading the Clemson program, Phillips has enhanced the Tiger program on many levels.

In addition to the success of the high-profile sports in 2009-10, the Clemson women's track & field program won the ACC Championship both indoor and outdoor, a first for the program, and finished in the top 20 in the nation at both national meets. The rowing program had its second consecutive top-15 finish and the women's volleyball team made its third consecutive NCAA Tournament appearance. Overall, seven different teams finished in the top 25 in the nation.

In his eight years at Clemson, the program has had 46 teams finish the season in the top 25. Five different women's sports have captured ACC titles during his tenure. Only Virginia has had a wider variety of women's sports win league titles.

One of the reasons for Clemson's level of success as a total sports program has been his emphasis on improving facilities. On June 30, 2009, Clemson's football staff moved into the WestZone at Memorial Stadium. It was a day that brought a smile to everyone associated with the program, but especially Phillips, who had been working toward that day before he arrived on campus in 2002.

Phillips' vision for the WestZone was to create a top-of-the-line facility for the football program, but at the same time have a positive effect on the total sports program. The facility at Memorial Stadium now creates more office space, new locker rooms, and training room and strength training facilities for the Olympic sports programs.

Clemson recently completed a new boathouse for the rowing program, one of the top facilities in the nation, added the new multi-million-dollar Thomas F. Chapman Grandstands at Doug Kingsmore Stadium, and a new clubhouse area at the Hoke Sloan Tennis Facility. Other improvements in the last three years have included a new practice facility for the golf program, and a new press box at the Riggs Field soccer stadium. Plans are in the works for the construction of the Larry B. Penley, Jr. Golf Facility, a new baseball locker room, and a significant enhancement to Riggs Field.

Academically, 17 of the 19 programs were above the national average for public institutions in terms of APR scores. In the 2010 spring semester, over 50 percent of Clemson's student-athletes were on the academic honor roll and seven of the 15 programs had team GPAs of at least 3.0. The overall GPA was 2.92 for the semester, third-highest on record.

Phillips has been recognized for these accomplishments in recent years. He was named as one of the top-100 Most Influential Sports Educators in America in 2008, a selection made by The Institute for International Sport at the University of Rhode Island. The institute's objective involved a four-year process and resulted in a list that spans scholars, Olympians, coaches, and other industry leaders "who have creatively and effectively used sport in the very best way as a means to educate and shape positive values."

Phillips' athletic career and academic pursuits epitomize that desire. Believed to be the only Division I athletic director with both a doctorate and law degree, he uniquely blends the discipline and inspiration created on each side of campus. He has firmly put his imprint on the University and Tiger athletics by creating a balanced, positive environment for success that emphasizes academic integrity, student-athlete welfare, and competing at the highest levels with unequivocal NCAA compliance.

Phillips was also recognized nationally for his performance at Clemson in June of 2006 when he was honored by NACDA (National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics) as the 2005-06 GeneralSports Turf Systems Athletic Director-of-the-Year for the Southeast Region of the FBS. He was one of just four FBS athletic directors honored at the annual convention in New Orleans, LA.

Excellence in academics has been a lifelong pursuit. He has an undergraduate degree from Arkansas (1970), a master's degree from Virginia Tech (1974), a doctorate degree from Virginia Tech (1978), and a law degree from the University of Arkansas School of Law (1996). He is a member of the Arkansas Bar, South Carolina Bar, American Bar Association, and Sports Lawyers Association.

Phillips maintains a classroom presence by teaching a sports law section in Clemson's accountancy & legal studies department. In addition, he is past chair of the NCAA Division I Infractions Appeals Committee and continues to serve the committee as requested.

Prior to coming to Clemson, Phillips served as athletic director at Oklahoma State. Football was transformed from a perennial losing status to very competitive, enjoying a return to bowl games after several years and establishing a winning record against instate rival Oklahoma. For this, he received the National Football Foundation Oklahoma Chapter Outstanding Contribution to Amateur Football Award in 2002.

Additionally in 2006, he was named one of the top-25 most influential people in the history of Oklahoma

State athletics by GoPokes Magazine. This recognition reflected the substantial success of the all-sports program and the momentous facility development under his leadership.

Before leading Oklahoma State, he served as senior associate athletic director at Arkansas from 1988-94. He also served as athletic director at Liberty (1980-81) and Louisiana-Lafayette (1983-88). He was an assistant athletic director at Missouri (1981-83) and began his administrative career in 1979 as an assistant athletic director at Florida.

Phillips began his career in college athletics coaching football. He started as a graduate assistant at Arkansas in 1970 and 1971. He moved on to Virginia Tech as an assistant coach (1971-78) before joining the ranks of athletic administration. At Virginia Tech, he served on coaching staffs that included future Clemson Head Coaches Charley Pell and Danny Ford.

Winning has been on Phillips' resumé since his playing days at Arkansas. He lettered on three Frank Broyles teams, where he and his brother Loyd, an Outland Trophy winner, were starting defensive tackles, the first brother combination to start together under Broyles. Arkansas had a 27-5 record in the three years, played in two Sugar Bowl games, and he played in the memorable 1969 National Championship game against Texas, a contest that continues to be featured on ESPN Classic.

In June of 2010, it was announced that Phillips would be inducted this fall into the University of Arkansas Hall of Honor.

Phillips has two children, John Dennis and Sarah-Jane, and three stepchildren, Meagan, a senior at Clemson and proud member of Tiger Band, Marshall, and Madison. His wife Tricia is a graduate of the University of Missouri School of Journalism and earlier enjoyed a career in athletics and development. She is now active in the Clemson and Seneca communities.

DABO SWINNEY

Head Coach

At age 40, Dabo Swinney is the youngest head coach in the ACC and one of the youngest in the country, but he handled his first full season as Clemson's head coach like an old veteran. In 2009, he led the Tigers to their first championship of the ACC's Atlantic Division. The Tigers came just six points short of winning their first ACC title in 18 years. Swinney was named ACC Coach-of-the-Year by Sporting News and was a finalist for the Liberty Mutual Coach-of-the-Year award.

Swinney accumulated nine wins, second-most among all FBS coaches in their first full year behind Oregon's Chip Kelly. The nine wins tied for fourth-most in ACC history for a first-year head coach. He also led the Tigers to their first bowl win since 2005 in the 21-13 victory over Kentucky in the Music City Bowl.

The Tigers reached the nine-win mark playing a schedule that included four games against top-15 opponents, just the second year in school history (1999 was the other) that Clemson played four games against teams ranked in the top 15 of the AP poll. Clemson was 1-3 in those games, but the three losses were by a combined 12 points (three points to Georgia Tech, four points to TCU, and five points to Georgia Tech in the ACC Championship game). The Tigers' three FBS non-conference opponents had a combined record of 29-10 in 2009. Clemson gave TCU one of its stiffest tests in a 14-10 Horned Frog victory on September 26.

Swinney's first season included a six-game winning streak at midseason, a streak that saw the Tigers score at least 34 points in every game, a first in school history. During that stretch, the Tigers beat #8 Miami (FL) on the road. The 40-37 overtime victory tied for the highest-ranked team Clemson has defeated on the road in school history.

That was the second of six straight wins, the longest winning streak for the Clemson program in four years. The streak also included a 40-24 nationally-televised win over Florida State and Bobby Bowden, the Hall of Fame coach who is second in victories in FBS history. The winning streak brought Clemson to a #15 national ranking in the AP poll after the ACC Atlantic Division clinching victory over Virginia on November 21.

The Tigers had success on offense, defense, and special teams during the 2009 season. The Tigers were 28th in the nation and third in the ACC in scoring offense (31.1), while the defense was 20th in total defense (314.3) and seventh in pass defense (162.8). Clemson finished in a tie for fifth in the country in interceptions (21) as well.

The main reason Clemson was so outstanding on special teams was the play of college football's most dynamic player, C.J. Spiller. The Tiger running back was named MVP of the ACC in 2009 and was a consensus first-team All-American. He had five kick returns for touchdowns during the 2009 season, an all-time Clemson record, and established the NCAA record for kickoff returns for touchdowns in a career with seven. He was also the only FBS player to score at least one touchdown in every game in 2009.

Overall, the Tigers held down three positions on the All-ACC First-Team and five spots on the second team. Only Virginia Tech had more representatives.

Swinney became Clemson's interim head coach on October 13, 2008 when Tommy Bowden stepped down after guiding the program for nearly 10 seasons. Then on December 1, 2008, the "interim" tag was removed, as he took over on a full-time basis as the Tigers' 25th head coach. He had been the assistant head coach for two years and had been in charge of the wideouts since 2003.

Swinney, who had never been a head coach prior to the 2008 season, led Clemson to a 4-3 record to close 2008. That mark included four victories in the last five regular-season games, with the only loss at #24 Florida State. That 4-1 record to end the regular season tied for the best mark in the ACC for that time period. Four of his six regular-season opponents were later bowl participants. His 4-3 record included a 2-1 road record, wins over Boston College and Virginia.

Swinney's first victory as a head coach took place in his first-ever road game at Boston College on November 1. Despite committing four turnovers and trailing in the fourth quarter, his troops rallied for a 27-21 win, giving Clemson its first win over the Eagles since 1958. It also came against the eventual ACC Atlantic Division winner.

The Tigers suffered a 41-27 defeat at #24 Florida State a week later, but they rebounded to trounce Duke 31-7 at Memorial Stadium by outgaining the Blue Devils 466-168 under Swinney, who also served as offensive coordinator during the second half of 2008. Clemson showed its road prowess the following weekend by claiming a 13-3 victory at Virginia and veteran Head Coach Al Groh.

Rival South Carolina awaited for the final regular-season game. Against one of the SEC's best defenses, the Tigers used a balanced attack (184 rushing yards, 199 passing yards) to top the Gamecocks 31-14 at Memorial Stadium. Clemson also had four interceptions against Steve Spurrier's offense and held it to just 22-47 passing for 212 yards. The following week, the Tigers accepted an invitation to play in the Gator Bowl against Nebraska.

The 1993 Alabama graduate joined the Clemson staff prior to the 2003 season. In his seven years, the Tigers have finished in the top 25 of the final polls four times and totaled 10 wins over top-25 teams, including victories over Florida State (4), Miami (FL) (2), and Tennessee (1), during his tenure in Tigertown.

Swinney coached his wide receiver position to a level of consistency that had not been seen previously at Clemson. He had a wideout finish first or second in the ACC in catches five of the last six years. In his first year, he had three of the top-10 receivers in the ACC, a first in Tiger history. He has coached a First or Second-Team All-ACC wideout every year since 2003 (Derrick Hamilton, Airese Currie, Chansi Stuckey, Aaron Kelly, Jacoby Ford), also an unprecedented feat at Clemson.

In 2004 and 2005, he coached the ACC reception champion (Currie (2004), Stuckey (2005)). It was the first time Clemson had two different players lead the ACC in receptions in consecutive years. In 2007, Kelly led the ACC in yards, giving Swinney an ACC receiving king three out of four years. Stuckey earned First-Team All-ACC honors in back-to-back years, a first for a Tiger wideout in 25 years.

The play of Swinney's wide receivers was a big reason Clemson led the ACC in total offense, rushing offense, and scoring offense during the 2006 season, just the second time an ACC team led the conference in all three categories during the previous 25 seasons. The Tigers also led the league and set school records for yards per play (6.5) and touchdowns (55).

In 2007, Swinney coached Kelly, a First-Team All-ACC selection who led the league in receiving yards per game and touchdown catches (11). He also finished second in receptions per game with a school-record 88 catches, tied for the second-highest total in ACC history. His 11 touchdown catches were a Tiger record as well.

Kelly is Clemson's and the ACC's career reception leader with 232 catches. He also owns the school touchdown reception record with 20. The previous record of 18 was held by Glenn Smith, who established the record in the 1951 season.

The Alabama native has a reputation as one of the top recruiters in the nation. In 2006, he was listed as the #5 recruiter in the nation by Rivals.com. It marked the second straight year that he was lauded by the website as a top-25 national recruiter. He signed 38 players in his five recruiting seasons and was a major reason Clemson's 2008 recruiting class was rated #2 in the nation by ESPN.com when he signed 11 players. He was named one of the top-25 recruiters in the nation by Rivals.com in 2007 as well.

When he accepted the interim head coaching position on October 13, 2008, he described his feelings as "bittersweet" because he was taking over for Bowden, who had been his first position coach at Alabama in 1989. He had also brought Swinney back to the coaching profession in 2003 and has had a profound effect on his life. Both had followed similar paths as players, as Bowden was a walk-on at West Virginia and Swinney was a walk-on at Alabama.

Swinney received a commerce & business administration degree from Alabama in 1993 after lettering three times (1990-92). A walk-on who went on to earn a scholarship, Swinney was a wide receiver on Alabama's 1992 National Championship team. He was also named Academic All-SEC along with being an SEC Scholar-Athlete Honor Roll member in 1990 and 1992.

Along with his appearance in the 1993 Sugar Bowl, his Alabama teams played in the 1990 Sugar Bowl, 1991 Fiesta Bowl, and 1991 Blockbuster Bowl. Both Sugar Bowl appearances came after winning the SEC title game.

After his playing career, Swinney served as a graduate assistant from 1993-95 at Alabama, where he coached in the 1994 Gator Bowl and 1995 Citrus Bowl. In December of 1995, he received a master's degree in business administration from Alabama.

He became a full-time assistant coach at Alabama in February of 1996 under Head Coach Gene Stallings and coached a total of five seasons there on a full-time basis. He was assigned to coach the Crimson Tide's wide receivers and tight ends in 1996, a season that saw Alabama win the SEC Western Division title and make an Outback Bowl appearance. The following year, he solely coached the tight ends under Head Coach Mike DuBose.

In 1998, he coached Alabama's wide receivers, a position he held for three seasons. At the end of the 1999 campaign, Swinney coached the Crimson Tide in the 2000 Orange Bowl after winning the SEC Championship game. Wide receiver Freddie Milons was the game MVP.

At Alabama, Swinney was a part of six teams with at least 10 wins, five top-10 finishes, one national title (1992), three SEC titles (1989,92,99), and five SEC Western Division titles (1992,93,94,96,99) as a player and coach. He has coached the #2 receiver at Alabama (Milons) along with the #1 (Kelly) and #2 (Hamilton) receivers in Tiger history.

Since 1997, he has had 20 former players either drafted or sign free-agent contracts with NFL teams. The list includes Hamilton, Currie, Kevin Youngblood, Stuckey, and Milons, an All-American at Alabama.

From April of 2001 through February of 2003, Swinney was in private business in Alabama. He married the former Kathleen Bassett in 1994. They have three sons, Will (12), Drew (10), and Clay (7).

Football Support Staff

Woody McCorvey

Associate Athletic Director
Football Administration

- 9th Season at Clemson
- Alabama State '72
- Born September 30, 1950

Woody McCorvey returned to Clemson after 20 years to become Associate Athletic Director for Football Administration on Dabo Swinney's first staff. McCorvey was Swinney's position coach during his playing days at Alabama and served as a wide receivers and tight ends coach on Danny Ford's Tiger staff from 1983-89.

McCorvey serves as the primary liaison between Swinney and the athletic and IPTAY administration. He also oversees the management of the football administrative offices.

His return had a positive effect on the program in 2009 when Clemson won the Atlantic Division of the ACC for the first time and finished the season in the top 25 of the AP poll.

McCorvey supervises the football budget and works with the staff at Vickery Hall to oversee the team's academic progress. He also makes speaking engagements and represents the football staff at various meetings and functions.

McCorvey worked seven years at Clemson from 1983-89. With McCorvey coaching the tight ends from 1983-85 and the wideouts from 1986-89, Clemson posted a 60-19-3 record and won three ACC titles. During that time, the Tigers were invited to the 1985 Independence Bowl, the 1986 and 1989 Gator Bowls, and the 1988 and 1989 Citrus Bowls. Clemson posted a 10-2 record in each of his last three seasons under Ford. Among the student-athletes he recruited were future Pro Bowlers Donnell Woolford and Chester McGlockton. He also coached future NFL players Keith Jennings and K.D. Dunn.

McCorvey coached at the Division I level for 26 years and went to a bowl game 17 of those seasons. Overall, he had 36 years of experience as a football coach. He coached or signed 36 players who went on to a professional football career as well.

From 1990-08, he coached in the SEC every year, including each of the last five at Mississippi State, where he served as assistant head coach and offensive coordinator in addition to coaching the quarterbacks. He was a big reason the Bulldogs won eight games, including wins over Auburn, Alabama, and Mississippi, in 2007.

McCorvey coached at Tennessee for five years (1999-03). With him heading the running game, the Volunteers had a 46-14 record. He helped guide Tennessee to the 2000 Fiesta Bowl, 2001 Cotton Bowl, 2002 Citrus Bowl, and 2002 and 2003 Peach Bowls. Tennessee also won three consecutive New Year's Day Bowl games (2000-02).

Under McCorvey's leadership, Tennessee maintained the school's reputation of having an outstanding rushing attack. The Volunteers led the SEC in rushing in 1999, averaging 191.3 yards per game. His work helped tailback Travis Stephens pace the SEC in rushing yards (1,464) in 2001. One year prior, McCorvey helped tailback Travis Henry finish second in the league and 14th in the nation in rushing yards (1,314). Another of his protégés was Jamal Lewis, who finished in the top five on the Tennessee career rushing list and was the #5 overall pick of the 2000 NFL draft.

Prior to joining the staff at Tennessee, McCorvey worked one season at South Carolina, where he served as the wide receivers coach in 1998 under current Tiger Associate Head Coach Brad Scott.

McCorvey took the South Carolina job following an eight-year stay at Alabama from 1990-97. He served seven seasons as its wide receivers coach and the 1996 campaign as offensive coordinator. He was the assistant head coach in 1997 as well.

Alabama had five top-25 final rankings in his tenure, including three seasons in the top five. The Crimson Tide won the 1992 national title with McCorvey serving as wide receivers coach and Swinney as one of his student-athletes. That season culminated with a 34-13 win over heavily-favored Miami (FL) in the Sugar Bowl. Current Clemson Assistant Coach Danny Pearman was also on that staff.

From 1990-96, Alabama had a 70-16-1 record and played in six bowl games. With him at the controls of the offense in 1996, Alabama was 10-3, including a win over Michigan in the Outback Bowl.

From 1979-82, he served as an assistant coach at Alabama A&M and helped that program to the #6 rushing offense in Division II in 1981 after finishing 11th in the nation in scoring offense the previous year. McCorvey began his collegiate coaching career at North Carolina Central in 1978.

McCorvey began his coaching career with a six-year stint (1972-77) at J.M. Tate Senior High School in Florida. A quarterback at Alabama State from 1968-71, he earned his bachelor's degree from Alabama State in 1972 and a master's degree from West Florida in 1977.

In November of 2010, McCorvey will be inducted into the Atmore, AL Hall of Fame. The Atmore, AL native is married to the former Ann Brown. The couple has a son, Marlon.

MEMORIAL STADIUM

"Death Valley"

Clemson's Memorial Stadium has been held in high esteem for many years. Whether it be players from the 1940s and 1950s, opposing players from the 1970s and 1980s, or even professional players in the 1990s, the ambiance of this special setting is what college football is all about.

The storied edifice added to its legend when the first meeting of father and son head coaches (Bowden Bowl I) took place before a sellout crowd of more than 86,000 fans in 1999. Clemson has been in the top 20 in the nation in attendance 29 straight seasons. A crowd has exceeded 80,000 fans 55 times since the 1983 season. In 2009, Clemson was 17th in the nation in average home attendance.

The facility's mystique is derived from its many traditions, which date to its opening in 1942, the legendary games and players, and Clemson's corresponding rate of success. Clemson has won 251 games in 68 years there and has won over 71 percent of the contests (251-97-7).

The stadium has definitely been good to the Tigers, but it was constructed against the advice of at least one coach. Just before Head Coach Jess Neely left for Rice after the 1939 season, he gave Clemson a message.

"Don't ever let them talk you into building a big stadium," he said. "Put about 10,000 seats behind the YMCA. That's all you'll ever need."

Instead of following Neely's advice, however, Clemson officials decided to build the new stadium in a valley on the western part of campus. The place took some clearing, as there were many trees, but luckily there were no hedges.

The crews went to work, clearing, cutting, pouring, and forming. Finally on September 19, 1942, Memorial Stadium opened with Clemson defeating Presbyterian College 32-13. Those 20,000 seats installed for Opening Day would soon grow.

When the original part of the stadium was built in the early 1940s, much of the work was done by scholarship athletes, including many football players. The first staking

"Running down the Hill is still talked about everywhere I go. Players who played against Clemson when I was in college remember us running down the Hill and thinking we would gain some type of spirit. The adrenaline rush was unbelievable for a Clemson player and quite a shock for the opponent."

Former Clemson All-American Jerry Butler

"I came here knowing it would be loud and Clemson would hit hard, but the noise was the biggest factor. I didn't concentrate as well because of it."

Herschel Walker after Clemson's 13-3 win in 1981, his only regular-season loss

"The Rock has strange powers. When you rub it and run down the Hill, the adrenaline flows. It's the most emotional experience I've ever had."

Six-time All-Pro and Tiger All-American Michael Dean Perry

"When Clemson players rub that Rock and run down the Hill, it's the most exciting 25 seconds in college football."

Brent Musburger, ABC Sports

"There is no place louder or more picturesque than Death Valley. There, where Clemson folks see magic in a hill and a rock, orange gets more respect than anywhere this side of Gainesville, Florida."

Terence Moore, Atlanta Journal-Constitution

"When you get to the bottom of the Hill, it's like you're in a hole and all around you are nothing but Clemson fans. It's like the crowd is one big voice. You feel like little kings."

Former Clemson running back Rodney Blunt

"Death Valley really lives up to its image. I was impressed with this stadium. When you put 80,000 people in there, it feels like they are on top of you. I'd hate to be whoever comes here to play Clemson."

San Francisco quarterback Steve Young

"Florida was loud in the swamp. But the loudest, not only stadium, but the loudest place I have ever been around in my life was definitely Death Valley. I was yelling at the top of my lungs and I couldn't even hear what I was saying. That place was unreal in how loud it was. I don't think I will ever be in a louder place than Clemson."

Florida State quarterback Chris Rix, 2001

"I'm very thankful that we're playing a day game at Clemson. The last time we were up there, it was extremely loud. I yelled the calls to my guard, but we couldn't hear each other and we couldn't hear each other in the huddle. When you have fans that can get that loud and distract offenses like that, that's as important as having an All-American on your defense."

Florida State center David Castillo, 2005

"In 2005, Clemson's Memorial Stadium, commonly known as 'Death Valley,' reached an astounding 126 decibels when a packed crowd of 79,135 fans observed Charles Bennett's sack of Kyle Wright during the Tigers' three-overtime heartbreaker against Miami (FL). This level easily surpassed the old record of 121 decibels set by Louisiana State fans in Tiger Stadium, which holds 92,400 fans."

RealFootball365.com

"The game when I was a sophomore (in 2005) stands out for me. What an awesome place that is to play. I'll never forget that atmosphere, and I know for a fact I've never seen so much orange in one place at one time. If you've never been there, going out on the field for the first time at Clemson is incredible."

Boston College quarterback Matt Ryan, 2007

"We go to a lot of great venues for college football, but this place doesn't take a back seat to any place. In terms of the atmosphere, stadium, the noise, and the facilities, this is a special place on a Saturday night."

ESPN commentator Todd Blackledge, 2009

"When you go down there, there are a couple of things you know. It's going to be loud. It's going to be challenging and it's going to be fun. It's a great atmosphere. There is real football fever and it is not just a Saturday afternoon activity. There is a real passion and real fever for Clemson football. I've always enjoyed going there because it is challenging."

Virginia Head Coach Al Groh, 2009

In 1974, the playing surface was named Frank Howard Field for the legendary coach because of his long service and dedication to Clemson University. Luckily, it wasn't built behind the YMCA.

out of the stadium was done by two members of the football team, A.N. Cameron and Hugh Webb. Webb returned to Clemson years later to be an architecture professor and Cameron went on to become a civil engineer in Louisiana.

The construction of Memorial Stadium did not proceed without problems. One afternoon during the clearing of the land, a young player proudly announced that he was not allergic to poison oak. He then proceeded to attack the poison oak with a swing blade, throwing the plants to and fro. The next day, the boy was swollen twice his size and was hospitalized.

There are many other stories about the stadium, including one that Frank Howard put a chew of tobacco in each corner as the concrete poured.

Howard said that the seeding of the grass caused a few problems. "About 40 people and I laid sod on the field," he said. "After three weeks on July 15, we had only gotten halfway through.

"I told them that it had taken us three weeks to get that far and I would give them three more weeks' pay for however long it took. I also told them we would have 50 gallons of ice cream when we got through. After that, it took them three days to do the rest of the field. Then we sat down in the middle of the field and ate up that whole 50 gallons."

Howard said that on the day of the first game in the stadium, "the gates were hung at 1:00 and we played at 2:00." But that would be all of the construction for a while. Then in 1958, 18,000 sideline seats were added, and in 1960, 5,658 west endzone seats were added in response to increasing attendance. With the large east endzone ("Green Grass" section), this expansion increased capacity to 53,000.

Later, upper decks were added to each side of the stadium as crowds swelled - the first in 1978 and the second in 1983. It increased capacity to over 80,000, which makes it one of the nation's largest on-campus stadiums. In 2006, the WestZone was added, an area that contains locker rooms and a luxury club level that holds 1,000 seats.

The effect that inflation has had can be dramatically seen in the differences in stadium construction. The original part of Memorial Stadium was built at a cost of only $125,000, or $6.25 per seat. The stadium's newest upper deck was finished in 1983 at a cost of $13.5 million, or $866 per seat.

Through the years, Memorial Stadium has become known as "Death Valley." It was tagged by the late Presbyterian College Coach Lonnie McMillan in the late 1940s. After bringing his teams to Clemson for years and getting whipped, he said the place was like "Death Valley." A few years later, the name stuck.

RUNNING DOWN THE HILL

"The Most Exciting 25 Seconds in College Football"

What has been described as, "the most exciting 25 seconds in college football" from a color and pageantry standpoint actually started out as a matter-of-fact entrance, mainly because of necessity.

The first 20,000 seats in Memorial Stadium were built and ready for use before the 1942 season, less than a year after Pearl Harbor was bombed and the United States was drawn into World War II.

The shortest entry into Memorial Stadium was a short walk down Williamson Road from Fike Fieldhouse's dressing rooms to a gate at the top of the Hill, which is located behind the east endzone. There were no dressing facilities inside the west endzone of Memorial Stadium...there was only a giant clock, where the hands turned, and a scoreboard that was operated manually by hand.

The team would dress at Fike Fieldhouse, walk down Williamson Road, come in the gate underneath where the scoreboard now stands, and jog down the Hill for its warmup exercises. There was no fanfare, no cannon shot fired, no Tiger Paw flag, no "Tiger Rag" played...just the team making its entrance and lining up to do the side-straddle hop. That is pretty much the way things went for the next 25 years.

Either in 1964 or 1965, S.C. Jones, a member of the class of 1919, made a trip to California. He stopped at a spot in Death Valley, CA and picked up a white flint rock. He presented it to Head Coach Frank Howard as being from Death Valley, California to Death Valley, South Carolina.

The rock laid on the floor in Howard's office in Fike Fieldhouse for years. One day, he was cleaning up his office and

The Rock was mounted on a pedestal at the top of the Hill on the east side of the stadium. It was unveiled September 24, 1966 when Clemson played Virginia. The Tigers were down 18 points with 17 minutes left and came back to win 40-35 on a 65-yard pass from Jimmy Addison to Jacky Jackson in the fourth quarter. That was quite a debut for the Rock.

The team members started rubbing the Rock prior to running down the Hill on September 23, 1967, a day when Clemson de-told Gene Willimon, who was executive secretary of IPTAY, to "take this rock and throw it over the fence or out in the ditch...do something with it, but get it out of my office!"

Willimon did not think that was the way a rock should be treated. After all, it had been brought 2,200 miles by a very sincere Tiger fan.

By the mid-1960s, Memorial Stadium was living up to its moniker ("Death Valley") because of the number of Tiger wins that had been recorded there. Actually, the name was first used by Lonnie McMillan, head coach at Presbyterian College during the 1940s.

McMillan and the other Blue Hose coaches before him used to open each season by playing at Clemson. Seldom scoring (24 shutouts in 39 games) and with only three victories and four ties to show for it, his teams were getting "killed" by the Tigers regularly. In 1948, McMillan made the comment to the press that he was taking his team to play Clemson in "Death Valley."

An occasional reference to Memorial Stadium by that name could be heard for the next four years, but when Howard started calling it "Death Valley" in the 1950s, the name took off like wildfire. Clemson celebrated its 68th year in the "Valley" in 2009.

But getting back to Howard's Rock.

feated Wake Forest by a score of 23-6.

Prior to running down the Hill that day, Howard told his players, "If you're going to give me 110 percent, you can rub that Rock. If you're not, keep your filthy hands off it!"

Howard told of the incident during the following day on his television show, and the story became legend.

When Hootie Ingram succeeded Howard as head coach prior to the 1970 campaign, Ingram decided that the team would make its final entrance on the field out of the dressing room in the west endzone. In all home games during the 1970 and 1971 seasons and the first four games of 1972 when the Tigers did not run down the Hill, their combined record was 6-9.

The team decided it wanted to come down the Hill once prior to the South Carolina contest during the 1972 season. The result, in a cold, freezing rain, was a 7-6 victory when Jimmy Williamson knocked down a two-point conversion attempt, which preserved the narrow win.

The Tigers have made the entrance for every home game since 1942, except for the seasons mentioned above (340 times entering the 2010 season).

After final warmups, the team gathers back in its dressing room under the west endzone stands for its final game instructions. Approximately 10 minutes prior to kickoff, the team boards three buses, rides around behind the north stands to the east endzone, and disembarks to the top of the Hill behind Howard's Rock.

At the appointed time, the cannon booms, and led by a giant Tiger Paw flag, the band forms two lines for the team to run between and strikes up "Tiger Rag"...the frenzy starts in all sincerity and usually lasts for three hours.

It is a tradition that has inspired Clemson players for many years.

WestZone

The everyday activities for the football program moved to Memorial Stadium on July 1, 2009. Tiger coaches moved into new offices in the WestZone of Memorial Stadium that day. A month later, the team made the locker room in Death Valley its full-time facility.

Additionally, a new equipment facility, athletic training facility, and strength training facility opened with all the modern conveniences of an NFL franchise's facility.

The new facility is 142,000 square feet, which adds over 50,000 square feet to previous facilities in the Jervey Athletic Center. It includes a two-floor strength training facility that is 14,000 square feet, among the largest dedicated solely for football in the nation.

"The motto for our program since I became head coach is 'All-In,'" said Head Coach Dabo Swinney. "This facility shows any Clemson football player, recruit, or supporter that our University is 'All-In' with this football program. The facility is among the best in the nation and allows our student-athletes to develop and become the best they can be."

The equipment room has been expanded to include, among other items, new offices and a new laundry room that encompasses approximately 6,000 square feet of space. The football staff offices and meeting rooms are composed of approximately 4,000 square feet of existing space and more than 18,000 square feet of new space.

The facility includes offices for the head coach, assistant coaches, and support staff along with position meeting rooms and a 150-seat auditorium with a sloped floor and theater seating.

The training room, located on the north side of the home team's locker room, is expanded to include a new hydrotherapy room, new offices, and examination rooms. The training room occupies about 6,200 square feet of space as well.

The level-three concourse has been expanded with the addition of the football offices. This space, the roof of the new football offices, is utilized for gameday marketing activities and to provide fans additional space to gather inside the stadium.

Clemson is committed to building a model sports program - one that propels our university into achieving and maintaining national athletic rankings that rival our competitors. The WestZone project is a major step forward in building a total sports program.

In order to be a consistent contender at the highest level of competition, Clemson must recruit the best student-athletes in the country - student-athletes who can compete both academically in the classroom and athletically on the field. The nation's best recruits are impressed by superior facilities, top coaches, and a strong sense of excitement along with school spirit. The student-athletes desire an environment in which they will have a positive, nurturing experience.

It is not a coincidence that the quality of Clemson's recruiting classes has improved dramatically since the WestZone project began in 2004.

Coaching is the most critical component of such an environment. An outstanding coach can sometimes transform meager resources into a good program, but the greatest success in college football comes when top-quality coaching combined with top-quality facilities allows that coach to recruit successfully on a consistent and continuing basis.

Former Clemson running back James Davis, the 2005 ACC Rookie-of-the-Year and now with the Cleveland Browns, stated that one of the biggest contributing factors in deciding on Clemson was the University's commitment to upgrading facilities. "Does Clemson want to be a championship program?" asked Davis when he was considering Clemson. "The WestZone (initiative) showed me that it does!"

Building success requires building for success. While the WestZone is located in Memorial Stadium, the completed project will provide resources for Clemson's total sports program, permitting all Tiger teams and athletes to compete with the nation's best. Moving all Clemson football operations to the WestZone has opened up space in the Jervey and McFadden buildings for the other 18 Clemson sports to improve their facilities for recruiting and have more office, training, conditioning, and sports medicine space. This will greatly enhance the overall performance, both on and off the field of competition, for all 19 of Clemson's intercollegiate sports.

A look to Clemson's athletic history shows the importance infrastructure enhancements have on the football program. The following chart summarizes the relationship.

STRENGTH & CONDITIONING

A significant aspect of Phase II of the WestZone project at Memorial Stadium was the construction of a new strength training facility on the first floor that is adjacent to the Clemson locker room and the Frank Howard Field playing surface.

For the first time, there is a strength training facility exclusively for the development of the Clemson football team. Director of Strength & Conditioning Joey Batson, who is in his 14th season at Clemson, makes sure that all Tiger gridders are ready to compete against the top teams in the nation. In his first 13 years in Tigertown, Clemson has played in 11 bowl games and he has coached 19 strength All-Americans on the gridiron.

It is the fourth major facilities construction since Batson joined the Tiger football program, an example of his desire to keep Clemson at the forefront of strength training.

The new facility has the best in all strength training equipment, not to mention the existence of a new sound system and nine new flat-screen televisions that give Tiger football players a pleasant atmosphere to accomplish the most strenuous work.

The strength training facility actually has two floors. The first floor has all the free-weight equipment, including a dumbbell area, and the second floor is a cardio-equipment area.

Batson has a staff of eight assistants working with the football team. Joining Batson are veteran Strength Coaches David Abernethy, Larry Greenlee, and Zac Durham. Five more assistants deal in player development year-round. Those assistants include former Tigers Bobby Hutchinson, Brian Mance, and Damonte McKenzie along with Brandon McCombs and Reed Stringer.

Joey Batson

Director of Strength & Conditioning

- 14th Season at Clemson
- Newberry '85
- Born June 22, 1961

Joey Batson is in his 25th year as a strength & conditioning coach at the collegiate level and 14th year as director of strength & conditioning at Clemson. He has served as a head strength & conditioning coach 21 of his 25 years of service.

Batson was named master strength & conditioning coach by the Collegiate Strength & Conditioning Coaches Association (CSCCA) in 2009. This honor is the highest given in the strength & conditioning coaching profession. Batson was presented with a blue MSCC jacket on May 7, 2009. He also was named the FootballScoop.com National Strength Coach-of-the-Year powered by Muscle Milk.

Batson has had a strong impact on the Clemson program since he became director in 1997. He has had much to do with the success of the football program, helping the Tigers to 11 bowl games and five top-25 final rankings. While at Clemson, he has worked for three head football coaches and has had a tremendous impact throughout the state at many notable high school programs.

An example of his respect level in the profession is demonstrated by the number of former assistants who are now assistants and/or directors at other universities, including conferences such as the ACC and SEC, along with several high-profile high school programs in the state.

Not only does Batson bring professional experience to the position at Clemson, he brings experience as a football player at the collegiate level. The Travelers Rest, SC native was a tight end at The Citadel in 1979 before transferring to Newberry, where he was a two-year letterman and team co-captain during his senior season.

Batson earned his bachelor of arts degree in physical education from Newberry in 1985 and his master's degree in education from Clemson in 1988. Prior to his collegiate career, Batson was named to the 1977 all-state football team as a defensive end in high school.

Batson is married to the former Susan Malone of Greenville, SC. The couple has two sons, Michael and Benjamin.

UNIVERSITY OF MIAMI

A private research university with more than 15,000 students from around the world, the University of Miami in Coral Gables, FL is a vibrant and diverse academic community focused on teaching and learning, the discovery of new knowledge, and service to the South Florida region and beyond.

Randy Shannon
Head Coach

Led by President Donna E. Shalala, the University is comprised of 12 schools and colleges serving undergraduate and graduate students in more than 180 majors and programs. In 2010, U.S. News & World Report recognized UM as the #1 school in Florida, ranking it #47 in its listings of "America's Best Colleges." It also cited several of its programs in "America's Best Graduate Schools."

Established in 1925 during the region's famous real-estate boom, UM is a major research university engaged in more than $326 million in research and sponsored program expenditures a year. While the majority of this work is housed at the Miller School of Medicine, investigators conduct dozens of studies in other areas, including marine science, engineering, education, and psychology.

University of Miami alumni live in all 50 states and in 148 foreign countries. Over 72,000 reside in Florida, including over 39,900 in Miami-Dade County. There are just over 166,000 alumni in UM's history. It is their success and support that has helped UM become one of the nation's leading private research universities.

The University of Miami comprises a plurality of races, ethnicities, languages, customs, and faiths. This multicultural environment reflects our location in one of the world's most dynamic and multicultural cities. It mirrors the increasingly diverse face of our nation and society. And it is an integral component of life at UM, creating a vibrant mosaic of perspectives that enriches our students' educational experience in countless ways.

Our students come from varied socioeconomic backgrounds and all walks of life. Nearly half are Hispanic, Asian-American, or African-American, and about one in eight students are from outside the United States.

HOW WILL YOU

LEAD?

Imtiaz Haque

Executive Director of Carroll A. Campbell Jr.
Graduate Engineering Center

Imtiaz Haque revealed his vision for the University in his opening remarks at the Clemson-hosted energy summit, "Welcome to the big leagues."

Haque pursues his global vision every day in his critical role in two of the University's most successful collaborations among government, industry and education. Haque has been instrumental in bringing the world's largest wind-turbine drive-train testing facility — and the state's largest federal grant — to the Clemson Restoration Institute. At CU-ICAR, Haque recognized the need to change the way we educate the people who design automobiles and collaborated with leaders in industry to create the country's only Ph.D. program in automotive engineering.

Bold, visionary faculty such as Haque are indeed taking Clemson and our economy into the "big leagues."

The competition for outstanding teachers and researchers is fiercer than ever today. The Clemson faculty is one of the University's great strengths. And they deserve our support.

Our donors make the difference by funding endowed professorships and chairs, research programs and facilities.

Will you be the one to make a difference? Will you lead? Make your gift or find out more at www.clemson.edu/giving.

The Will to
LEAD
A CAMPAIGN FOR CLEMSON

This year, Clemson launches the Will to Lead: A Campaign for Clemson, an effort to raise more than $600 million to support Clemson students and faculty by July 2012.

When I say "good,"
you say "neighbor."

Now that's teamwork.

VICKERY HALL

VICKERY HALL

Student-Athlete Enrichment Program

Since its inception in 1991, the Student-Athlete Enrichment Programs have provided student-athletes a continued commitment to excellence. Our approach is to address the total student-athlete, and we are committed to coaching our student-athletes to success in the academic, personal growth, career, and community service arenas.

As an original member of the NCAA CHAMPS/Life Skills Program, we provide opportunities and services to address the changing needs and skills of student-athletes during college and after graduation. This program was selected for the FBS Athletic Director's Association "Program of Excellence" Award, a lifetime award recognizing CHAMPS/Life Skills excellence.

Clemson's commitment to provide its student-athletes with the best facilities is evident in many ways. From the soaring upper decks of Memorial Stadium and the beautiful WestZone, to the "New Littlejohn Coliseum," to the state-of-the-art strength training facility, young men and women from all of Clemson's intercollegiate varsity sports have the best in facilities for both training and competition.

The Student-Athlete Enrichment Programs are housed in Vickery Hall, located in the center of campus. The $3-million structure is as impressive aesthetically as other athletic facilities. It recently underwent $300,000 in renovations to further assist our student-athletes in the classroom. But the importance of Vickery Hall to our student-athletes is not found in the structure itself, but in the many programs that the building houses.

Vickery Hall opened in 1991 and was the first facility in the country constructed solely to provide academic support to student-athletes. The two-story, 27,000 square-foot building is open all day and into the evening hours to accommodate student-athletes' extended schedules.

Vickery Hall programs are dedicated to providing a holistic, educational experience by inspiring an environment of respect, integrity, and excellence. Through these services,

Vickery Hall guides and encourages each individual to reach his or her full potential as a student, athlete, and citizen.

Academic Commitment

Over 50 percent of Clemson's student-athletes were on the academic honor roll for the fall and spring semesters in 2009-10. Seven of the 15 programs had team GPAs of at least 3.0 and the overall GPA was 2.92 for the spring semester, third-highest on record. There were 114 student-athletes on the Dean's List, including 39 who posted a perfect 4.0 GPA for the semester.

The programs that posted a 3.0 GPA or better were the women's soccer (3.40), women's swimming & diving (3.28), women's track & field (3.23), men's soccer (3.16), rowing (3.13), men's tennis (3.04), and women's tennis (3.04) teams.

The number of sports programs with a 3.0 or better is a testament to the impact Vickery Hall and its staff has had on the academic performance of the Clemson program. Clemson had just five total programs with at least a 3.0 for the eight semesters prior to the facility opening in 1991. Now there are seven different programs in one semester.

The women's tennis (#11), rowing (#15), and women's track & field (#18) teams also ranked in the top 20 in the nation in their final meet or poll in addition to achieving a team GPA of 3.0 or better.

For the first time ever, all 15 programs had at least a 2.5 GPA in the same semester. The seven teams with at least a 3.0 GPA were just one short of the record of eight different programs with a 3.0 GPA in one semester.

The Clemson football team posted a 2.56 GPA for the semester and 33 of the team members had at least a 3.0 GPA. It was the third straight semester the football team had at least 30 members make the academic honor roll, the second-longest streak in the program's history (four in a row in 1999-01). The list of academic honor roll members included first-team All-American DeAndre McDaniel, starting center Dalton Freeman, who made the Dean's List, and First-Team All-ACC tight end Michael Palmer, who had a 4.0 GPA and graduated in May.

Seven members of the football team were named to the All-ACC Academic team. The Tigers had the second-most selections to the team, trailing only Duke (12). The seven selections were the most ever for the Clemson program. The ACC has selected an All-ACC Academic football team every year since 1954. The previous Tiger record was five selections in 1965, 1985, 2001, 2007, and 2008.

Members of the 2009 Tiger team who were selected included Thomas Austin, Mason Cloy, Dalton Freeman, Rashard Hall, Brandon Maye, Michael Palmer, and Dawson Zimmerman. Austin was also a third-team All-American and Palmer was a First-Team All-ACC selection.

Athletic Commitment

Clemson was one of eight schools in the nation to be selected for a bowl game, the NCAA Men's Basketball Tournament, and the NCAA Baseball Tournament in 2009-10. The Tigers joined Florida State as the only schools in the nation to go to a bowl, the NCAA Basketball Tournament, and the College World Series. It was the ninth year Clemson played in a bowl game, the NCAA Basketball Tournament, and the NCAA Baseball Tournament in the same academic year.

Clemson became the first school in the ACC to capture a division title in both baseball and football in the same athletic season. The football team defeated Virginia at home on November 21 to clinch the Atlantic Division title, while baseball completed a sweep of Florida State on May 22 to earn the division championship.

The Tiger program also collected ACC Championships in women's indoor and outdoor track & field.

Clemson closed the 2009-10 academic year with a rush, as five spring sports finished with top-20 national rankings. The baseball (#4), women's tennis (#11), rowing (#15), men's golf (#16), and women's track & field (#18) squads all finished in the top 20. It was just the second time in school history that Clemson had five top-20 programs during the spring. The spring of 1992 is the only other year it has happened. Overall, Clemson had seven of its 19 programs rank in the final top 25 of their respective polls.

Running back C.J. Spiller was a first-round draft pick of the Buffalo Bills in the 2010 NFL draft. He was the #9 overall selection. In June, outfielder Kyle Parker was the #26 overall selection in the first round of the Major League Baseball draft by the Colorado Rockies. Forward Trevor Booker of the men's basketball team followed suit as the #23 overall selection in the NBA draft by the Washington Wizards. Clemson and Georgia Tech were the only two schools in the nation with a first-round draft pick in all three sports in 2009-10.

The Tiger program also produced an NCAA Champion in 2010 when Patricia Mamona of the track & field team won the outdoor triple jump.

This brief NCAA rules education is aimed at outlining basic rules to help potential Clemson students-athletes, parents, and boosters better understand the regulations. Clemson University is committed to recruiting and conducting our athletic program with the highest level of integrity. If you have questions about NCAA rules, please contact Clemson's compliance services at (864) 656-1580, through our website at ClemsonTigers.com, or via email at compliance-L@clemson.edu.

Are You a Booster?

The NCAA definition of a "representative of athletics interest" generally encompasses most individuals who regularly attend Clemson sporting events (reminder - once a representative, always a representative). Specifically, a booster or "representative of athletics interests" is any individual, independent agency, corporate entity, or other organization that is presently or has ever:

- Participated in promoting the institution's athletic program (such as buying season tickets to sporting events).
- Assisted in providing benefits (such as summer employment) to enrolled student-athletes.
- Assisted or been requested by the department of athletics staff to assist in the recruitment of prospective student-athletes.
- Attended Clemson University.
- Contributed to the department of athletics or IPTAY.
- Participated in or been a member of IPTAY.
- Been otherwise involved in the Clemson University athletics program.

Ask Before You Act

Prospective student-athletes may...

- Identify outstanding potential student-athletes in your area and forward information, such as newspaper articles, to the coach of that sport at Clemson.
- Continue to establish friendships with friends and neighbors, even those with prospect-aged children. However, contact for recruiting purposes is still prohibited.
- Attend, on your own initiative, events such as games and banquets where prospective student-athletes are present as long as you do not contact the prospect(s) or their family for recruiting purposes.
- Answer a call from a prospective student-athlete (you may not initiate the call) regarding only Clemson University in general, but not about Tiger athletics. Please promptly inform compliance services or the coach should this situation arise.
- Make donations to a high school if it is located in your community, the donation is not made at the request of Clemson or Clemson coaches, and the funds are distributed through established channels and not directed towards a specific student-athlete.

Current student-athletes may...

- Continue to come out and support student-athletes at Clemson athletic events.
- Provide summer employment to student-athletes, but only if you contact Clemson's office of compliance services (compliance-L@clemson.edu) first and the student-athlete is compensated for work actually performed at a rate commensurate with the going rate in the locality for similar services.

What Every Booster Should Know

- Extra Benefit - Any special arrangement by a Clemson employee, booster (IPTAY member), or alum to provide a prospective or enrolled student-athlete or their families and friends with a benefit not permitted by NCAA legislation. Examples of prohibited benefits include (but not limited to):
 - Arranging employment for family and friends of the student-athlete.
 - Free or reduced housing agreements.
 - Gifts of money, awards, food/drinks, or other tangible items.
 - Loans of money or automobiles.
 - Professional services without charge or at a discount.
 - Promises of employment or loans following college graduation.
 - Providing transportation for the student-athlete or their friends and family.
 - Use of ATM, credit, or other types of gift cards.
- Institutional Control - A central principle of the NCAA bylaws. Institutional control requires that Clemson University conducts its intercollegiate athletics program in compliance with NCAA rules and regulations. This includes booster activities.
- Prospective Student-Athlete - A student, regardless of their athletic ability, who has started classes for the ninth grade or any student enrolled at another two or four-year institution.
- Recruiting - Any solicitation of a prospect or a prospect's family by Clemson's coaches or representatives of athletic interest for the purposes of securing the prospective student-athlete's ultimate enrollment and participation in athletics at Clemson. Only designated Clemson athletics department staff members may recruit.
- Student-Athlete - A student whose enrollment was solicited by a member of the Clemson athletic department staff or other representative of athletics interest with a goal of the student's ultimate participation in Clemson's intercollegiate athletics program. Student-athletes are not just those that were recruited or receive athletic scholarships, they are also those that participate in intercollegiate athletics.

Activities That Will Harm Prospective Student-Athletes You may not...

- Contact (including phone calls, texts, and email) or interact with a prospective student-athlete or their family for the purpose of persuading them to attend Clemson.
- Contact coaches, guidance counselors, or other school administrators in order to gain information on prospective student-athletes.
- Make contact with a prospective student-athlete or the prospect's family during official or unofficial visits to Clemson.
- Provide any other extra benefits to prospective student-athlete, family, friends, or their coaches.
- Provide prospective student-athletes or their family and friends with transportation or financial assistance.

- Generally provide benefits that are not available to other members of the Clemson student body.
- Provide extra benefits to student-athletes or their family and friends. Examples of prohibited benefits include (but not limited to):
 - Gifts of money, awards, food/drinks, or other tangible items.

 - Use of ATM, credit, or other types of gift cards.
 - Use the name or image of a current student-athlete to advertise, recommend, or promote products or services.

Consequences

- Violations of these NCAA, ACC, and University policies can result in severe penalties, including:
- Disassociation - Clemson University may permanently disassociate itself with an athletic booster. You could lose the privilege of purchasing season tickets, the privilege of being an IPTAY member, or any other Clemson athletic-related benefit deemed appropriate.
 - Harm to the Enrolled Student-Athlete - Violations can also result in the enrolled student-athlete or entire team being unable to compete for Clemson University.

The IPTAY Representative program continues to be one of the most important marketing tools available for the growth of the IPTAY Scholarship Fund. This group of nearly 700 women and men throughout the country volunteer their time to encourage those in their communities and in their circle of influence to join IPTAY on an annual basis and to support Clemson in all endeavors. Despite economic challenges throughout the state and region, IPTAY had a successful 2010 campaign due to the tireless efforts of this group.

The recruitment of new donors, those who have a potential for leadership gifts, and creating a link between Clemson and its constituents is the goal of each IPTAY representative. With the continued leadership provided by the IPTAY Board of Directors and our past presidents, the REP program will continue to be successful. If you are interested in becoming an IPTAY representative, contact Jason Wilson via email at wilson@clemson.edu.

MAJOR GIFTS PROGRAM

Respecting History Embracing Change

Humble Beginnings

From the humble beginnings of playing on Bowman Field in the late 1800s and early 1900s and the building of Historic Riggs Field in 1915, Clemson has a storied past that is very much embraced today.

Under early leaders, such as Walter M. Riggs and John Heisman, the Tigers built the foundation that maintains Clemson athletics as a vital force. Fike Fieldhouse was built in 1930 and Memorial Stadium was erected in a valley in 1942. IPTAY, a model for college booster organizations across the country, was born in 1934, providing educational opportunities for student-athletes.

Women's sports were added in the mid-1970s, and with this growth came the Jervy Athletic Center in 1973. The most recent athletic facility added was the WestZone in 2009, transforming Memorial Stadium into one of the most modern facilities in the nation.

With this growth and expansion, it is interesting to note that Bowman Field, Historic Riggs Field, and Fike Fieldhouse are still in use today by varsity athletics and the student body. The Tigers are fortunate to have had outstanding early leaders who had bold and futuristic vision.

Exciting Future

As Clemson embarks on its athletics future, the philosophy of holistically developing the student-athlete continues to be at the forefront. IPTAY continues to provide the funding necessary to carry out this mission and lives up to its motto ("Championships Begin With Scholarships") by funding approximately 500 scholarships, Vickery Hall (student-athlete enrichment center), various facility projects, and the operation of IPTAY.

We are confident that future generations of male and female athletes will move beyond their fields of play and have a positive impact on the world, just as all of the student-athletes who have preceded them throughout the celebrated history of Clemson athletics. Our goal is to provide our student-athletes with championship-level fields, courts, classrooms, and civic and community-service education that is second-to-none in the country. If we expect the best upon graduation, we must invest in the best.

The exciting and visionary future plans include:

- Completion the WestZone Museum, Oculus, and North-west Concourse
- Renovation of Historic Riggs Field - a new gateway to the Athletic District
- Facility improvements and additions to Doug Kingsmore Stadium for our baseball program
- Expansion of the Hoke Sloan Tennis Facility
- Expanding the footprint of basketball - a master plan for Littlejohn Coliseum and the Huckabee Annex
- Funding our community-service initiatives

Please join Tiger athletics and IPTAY in supporting this important plan. Call our major gifts office at (864) 656-5208 for more details and to learn how you can help.

The Clemson Tiger Sports Network supplies fans with a full day of broadcast each football Saturday. Each broadcast day has three programs, "Tiger Tailgate Show," "Game Day Broadcast," and "Fifth Quarter Show."

A Tiger tradition since the 1970s, the "Tiger Tailgate Show" is a two-hour entertainment and interactive program. It is produced on the lawn of Littlejohn Coliseum at the corner closest to Memorial Stadium.

The program begins three hours prior to kickoff on gameday. Roy Philpott, David Stein, Dory Kidd, and Ben Miltstead host the show. It is a popular gathering place. Interviews with former players, games, display items, and other exciting action are all part of the show.

The game broadcast is anchored by Pete Yanity. The sports director at WSPA-TV (Ch. 7) in Spartanburg, SC took over in 2003 after the passing of Jim Phillips, who had been the longtime Voice of the Tigers since 1968. Yanity has been a part of the broadcast team since 2001 as the host of the pregame, halftime, and postgame shows, and as the sideline reporter during games.

Yanity has been the sports director at WSPA-TV the last 20 years. He has also been a sideline analyst for 14 years on Carolina Panther preseason games and has play-by-play experience with CSS, covering various college events, including Tiger football and baseball games. Yanity is also the voice of Tiger men's basketball and host of the Dabo Swinney and Brad Brownell Television Shows.

Joining Yanity in the broadcast booth is former Tiger offensive lineman Will Merritt, who played for the Tigers from 1998-01. He was a starting offensive guard during the 2000 and 2001 seasons when he was named Second-Team All-ACC.

Merritt worked on the Clemson radio network pregame and postgame shows during the 2002 season. He also provided color commentary on the television tape-delay broadcasts of selected 2002 games. In 2003, he became the color analyst of the gameday broadcasts.

Patrick Sapp completes the broadcast team as the sideline commentator. The former Clemson quarterback and linebacker (1992-95) is in his fourth season as sideline commentator. As a player, Sapp passed for 2,278 yards in three seasons under center. During his senior campaign, he moved to linebacker, where he totaled 64 tackles and a team-high 5.5 sacks prior to being selected in the second round of the NFL draft by the San Diego Chargers. Sapp is currently a development officer for the Clemson Alumni Association.

As has been the case in the past, the gameday broadcast begins with the Dabo Swinney Pregame Show. Swinney meets with Sports Information Director Tim Bourret to provide Tiger fans with the latest lineup and strategy information. Yanity and Merritt also provide a last-minute scene-setter that includes the latest lineup and weather information.

After the game, fans can tune into the "Fifth Quarter Show," hosted by Dan Scott, or attend the show live from Wild Wing Cafe in downtown Greenville, SC. Interviews with Swinney along with Coordinators Billy Napier and Kevin Steele are also included. An added feature includes locker room interviews with Clemson's top players that day. A rundown of the game stats and audio highlights are also provided.

Fans can follow the Tigers by listening to "Tiger Calls" each Thursday evening with Swinney and Don Munson from 8:00 PM to 9:00 PM. The shows air live from several BI-LO grocery stores in the Clemson area.

The Clemson Tiger Sports Network also produces the Dabo Swinney Television Show, a recap of the previous contest's highlights. Tiger Twirlers Reunion

Tiger Twirlers have been a part of Tiger Band since 1956, with Phyllis O'Dell (pictured below center) arriving first followed by Carolyn Willis Creel. Times have changed, including the name, beginning with the Clemson Major-ettes to the current Tiger Twirlers. No longer are the twirlers wearing long capes or being escorted onto the field by male band members who held the capes while the twirlers performed. Although there have been changes in the uniforms and style of twirling through the years, being a part of Tiger Band serves as a unifying bond.

Today, twirlers from all decades are participating in a Tiger Twirler reunion along with the alumni band festivities. The twirlers wish to stay connected, not just for the reunion today, but to celebrate everyday life accomplishments. The alumni twirlers have created an email distribution list, making it easier for the twirlers to keep their bond. It has helped twirlers locate each other and share memories, including pictures of their times as a twirler.

"It is amazing that whether we twirled in the 1950s or the 2000s, we have had similar experiences as members of Tiger Band," stated Stephanie McCoy Hewett ('79). "These experiences are what bond us together into the Clemson University Tiger Band Association."

Welcome back twirlers! Enjoy your time together with the twirlers and other alumni band members!

Alumni Band Marks 27th Year

Today marks the 27th year that the alumni band has marched at a Clemson Homecoming game. Organized by CUTBA, the Clemson University Tiger Band Association, Alumni Band has grown to be one of the signature events of the homecoming festivities.

Participants in this fun event range from 1960s grads to 2009 alumni. It is truly a gathering of the Tiger Band family. Old friends relive the "glory days," while new friends and acquaintances are made marching side by side. Sitting in the sun or rain, playing "Tiger Rag" until your fingers are stiff or your lips are sore, the members of the Tiger Band family would not miss this event.

About CUTBA

Organized in 1978, CUTBA was formed by a small group of Tiger Band alumni to provide support and assistance to Tiger Band. As our membership has grown, so have our goals and objectives. The CUTBA Endowment is a scholarship endowment organized through the Clemson Foundation and now approaches $400,000. A recently completed fundraising effort attained over $2 million in future pledges for the endowment. CUTBA will continue its efforts for Tiger Band with the Will to Lead capital campaign. If you would like to support CUTBA and Tiger Band, contact the band office at (864) 656-3380.

SAMANTHA FORTIER & MARCI ELPERS

There are only two seniors on the 2010 Clemson women's soccer roster. Forward Samantha Fortier and goalkeeper Marci Elpers make up what is considered to be a small senior class on a soccer squad with 23 players on the roster. While their class may be small in numbers, the impact that the two players have had on the program has been significant. And the plans that each student-athlete has for her future beyond Clemson are certainly not small either.

For Fortier, it took just one visit to Tigertown to make her decision on where to go to college. After visiting several other schools (Massachusetts, Ohio State, Princeton, Villanova), the Wilbraham, MA native had not yet found a school that was the right fit for her.

"When I visited Clemson, I knew it was the perfect fit for me," said Fortier. "I loved everything about Clemson - the girls on the team, the atmosphere, and the pride people had for being a Clemson Tiger. It was the perfect college town and I committed two days after my visit."

Elpers initially chose Clemson for its engineering program. In fact, after growing up playing soccer in Kingsport, TN, Elpers planned to continue her soccer career on Clemson's club team. She played on the club team for less than one full season when she received the call, asking her to play with the varsity team.

"That was one of my most memorable moments," Elpers recalled. "I can still remember where I was when I got that phone call and the feeling that I had. It was a great opportunity and I could not imagine my time at Clemson any other way."

Fortier is a veteran of 51 games as a Tiger and has five goals and seven assists in her career. During her freshman season in 2007, she finished in a tie for third on the team in scoring with 13 points. That year, the Tigers advanced to the second round of the NCAA Tournament. Fortier suffered an ACL injury during the 2010 spring season and is still working to get back to full strength. She hopes to be back on the field competing sometime in October.

Elpers' sophomore year (2008) was her first full season on the team, as she joined the Tigers just prior to post-season play in 2007. Elpers has played a role as a backup goalkeeper for three seasons, seeing action in six games and recording 21 saves in her career.

Fortier and Elpers will both leave Clemson with fond memories. They cited the atmosphere at Riggs Field on gameday, competing in the 2007 NCAA Tournament, lining up across the field from a nationally-ranked opponent, and the feeling after a hard workout with the team as a few of their favorites. Both seniors agree that the thing they will miss the most about Clemson will be their teammates.

"Over the past four years, my teammates have become my best friends and I will always be close with them for the rest of my life," explained Fortier. "The soccer team is my family at Clemson and I will miss being around them. The fun soccer trips, celebrating our wins, through good times and bad - we have all been there for each other."

"I'll definitely miss my teammates first and foremost," admitted Elpers. "I love being a part of this team. The girls on the team make the entire experience worthwhile. Our team is so close this year...it makes practice and playing together mean that much more."

Although they will forever remain friends with their current and former teammates, Fortier and Elpers may or may not be geographically close to them over the next few years, as both have big plans for the future.

Fortier recently completed an internship at a bipartisan lobbyist firm on Capitol Hill in Washington, D.C. She spent the summer working in the firm's telecommunications area, researching bills and attending hearings of the Senate and House of Representatives. Fortier will graduate with a degree in political science in May of 2011 and plans to attend law school beginning in the fall of 2011.

Following her graduation in May of 2011 with a degree in bioengineering, Elpers plans to attend medical school. Although she is still involved in the application process, Boston University is one of her top choices. After spending the summer shadowing an orthopedic surgeon in clinic and in surgery, Elpers has developed an interest in orthopedic surgery. She also enjoys working with children and sees pediatrics as another potential area of focus for her medical career.

Attending Clemson and being a part of the soccer squad have helped Samantha Fortier and Marci Elpers shape these impressive plans for the future. Over the past four years, the two seniors have certainly left their mark on Clemson as well. Both will be moving on soon to make an impact in the next phase of their lives, as a lawyer and a doctor, respectively, with Clemson remaining in their hearts.

Competitiveness is a term often used to describe athletes, and there may not be a more fitting word for Clemson swimmer Chris Dart.

"I think my biggest strength is my competitiveness," said Dart, a junior from Chatham, NJ. "I hate to lose. I like to think that I hate to lose more than anyone."

Dart has been one of the strongest competitors for the Tigers during his two seasons in Tigertown. It did not all start as smoothly as he had hoped.

"I think being competitive was definitely my strength coming in, but at the same time it was my weakness because I was a 'hothead.' I was coming in expecting to win every event by a lot and I got really down on myself. The coaches here and the team do a really good job of supporting you when you have a bad swim or you can't pull it through on the last relay."

As Dart has matured as a swimmer, he has managed to make a huge impact on Clemson's swimming program. During his freshman season, he swam his way into Clemson's all-time top-10 list in three individual events and a relay. The team named him rookie-of-the-year and the most valuable swimmer.

As a sophomore, Dart continued to make a name for himself. He was one of the most consistent performers for the Tigers, as his versatility allowed him to compete in many different events, including the backstroke, freestyle, and individual medley.

Dart showed just how versatile he really is when he set a school record in the 200 IM with his time of 1:47.23 at the ACC Championships. Although this may be a career highlight for some, Dart's highlight from his sophomore season came from a team effort.

"The highlight for me would have to be when the team beat South Carolina last year. That was a whole team effort and to beat our rival in our home pool with such a close-knit team was really special."

Clemson's swimming & diving squad is a close bunch, and that is one of the aspects that was important to Dart when picking a school. It was the family feel that was one of the driving factors for him choosing the Tigers.

"The thing I love most about Clemson is that this whole town is one big family. It is a gigantic family that stretches across the whole country.

"Coming from a small family, that aspect was really important to me when I was taking my recruiting trips. So when I came here and I saw how close the team was, that really made me excited. Then I saw how close the town was and how much support we get at swim meets. For a sport like swimming, it is pretty awesome. I have really enjoyed it so far."

That closeness of the swimming program has only grown stronger and Dart believes that it could be an advantage for the Tigers this season. With the leadership returning and the talented group of newcomers, the bond that this team has can propel the team to success.

"Personally, I don't think we could get any closer," admitted Dart. "We are like a family. We do everything together. We go everywhere together. We eat lunch together. We even have a swim team table in the dining hall. We have gotten closer as a swimming family this year. We are all working towards the same goal and I think this year we have gotten close to that goal. We are a lot more focused."

Dart, who has dual-citizenship in Great Britain and the United States, spent his summer training. He also competed in Europe, as his performance proved that he is ready for this season and he will be a strong competitor for the Tigers. He had three top-10 finishes at the British Gas ASA National Championships, as he took third in the 50 backstroke, fifth in the 100 backstroke, and eighth in the 200 individual medley. Dart will enter this season as one of the veterans on the team and is embracing his role as one of the many leaders.

"I try to lead by example by practicing hard, being competitive, and listening to the coaches," explained the communications studies major. "You can lead in so many different ways, and I think that everyone on this team is a leader."

This season will be all about the team goals for Dart. The squad is looking for a top-three finish in the ACC, and he believes that goal is within reach. There are some personal goals that he keeps in the back of his mind as well.

"I want to win every event this season. But also one of my best friends, Tom Recko, holds the 100 back record at Clemson, so to get that record would be really special to me."

Competitive, a fitting word for Chris Dart.

REGGIE MERRIWEATHER

Clemson vs. Miami (FL), 2004

"Reggie, Reggie, Reggie."

That was commonly heard in Death Valley, and even in opposing stadiums, during Reggie Merriweather's career at Clemson from 2003-06.

Standing only 5'8", Merriweather was always known as a "small guy" on the field. However, no one could ever question his heart. Playing in 45 games (12 starts) in his career, #37 rushed for 1,612 yards on 331 carries with 20 touchdowns.

Merriweather was a player that always came through in the clutch. He is still the only Tiger to score three game-winning touchdowns inside the last three minutes of a game. He accomplished this feat in consecutive years against Maryland (2004,05) and in the 2004 win over Miami (FL) in the Orange Bowl.

That 2004 Miami game, combined with an outstanding performance against South Carolina two weeks later, is what made Merriweather a fan-favorite during his time in Tigertown.

I came to Clemson in 2004 as a freshman equipment manager and had the great opportunity to work with Merriweather for three years. He was always a great guy to be around on and off the field and was such an outstanding team player.

Being a freshman, I did not travel with the team to south Florida in 2004, but I was fortunate to make the trip with my family to sit in the stands. The Hurricanes entered the game ranked #9 in the county with a 6-1 record, but they were coming off a tough 31-28 last-second loss at North Carolina. The Tigers entered unranked with a 4-4 record, but they were on a three-game winning streak.

With the game acting as Miami's Homecoming along with being a night game in the Orange Bowl (where the Hurricanes had won 18 consecutive night games), very few people gave the Tigers much of a chance.

The game did not start out well for the Tigers, as Frank Gore scored on a 23-yard touchdown run on the game's opening drive. It took the Hurricanes only five plays to march 68 yards in 2:04 to take a 7-0 lead. They enlarged their margin to 10-0 on a 35-yard field goal later in the first quarter.

Clemson finally got on the scoreboard with a 48-yard field goal by Jad Dean to cut the Hurricanes' lead to 10-3 heading into the second quarter. Miami extended its lead to 17-3 late in the first half behind another Gore touchdown run, and the Tigers trailed by 14 points at halftime.

The second half was a totally different story, thanks to a stingy Tiger defense and the play of Merriweather.

On the second Clemson drive of the half, Charlie Whitehurst hit Airese Currie for 37 yards on a third-and-long play. Merriweather busted through the line on the next play for 27 yards and a touchdown, cutting the Hurricanes' lead to 17-10.

Entering the fourth quarter, Clemson still trailed 17-10 but was driving in Miami territory. Facing a fourth-and-two from the Hurricane nine, Clemson went to its bag of tricks, as Dean took an over-the-shoulder pitch from holder Cole Chason on a fake field goal and ran to the Miami three. Merriweather barreled into the endzone on the next play to tie the score 17-17. On the Tigers' 50-yard drive, Merriweather was responsible for 27 yards.

Nether team could score during the remainder of regulation and the game moved into overtime. Miami won the coin toss and the Tiger offense took the field first. Following a Hurricane penalty and a completion to Currie, Merriweather scored his third touchdown of the night on a two-yard run to put Clemson ahead 24-17.

On Miami's possession, the Hurricanes reached the Tiger 10 in two plays and had four chances to tie the score. Following a five-yard run and two incomplete passes, the game came down to one final play. Brock Berlin's pass was defended by Tye Hill and sailed wide of Lance Leggett, as Clemson came away with an improbable victory.

In the game, the Tigers overcame a 14-point deficit that tied the fourth-largest comeback in school history. They also overcame some Miami history, as the Hurricanes had been 174-2 when leading after three quarters since 1985. It was also the Hurricanes' first conference loss in the Orange Bowl since 1998.

As for Merriweather, he finished the game with a then-career-high 114 rushing yards and three touchdowns. The sophomore also added four receptions for 24 yards to give him 138 all-purpose yards in the game. For his performance, Merriweather was named Clemson's offensive player-of-the-game by the Clemson coaches and was cited for a gameball by ESPN.com.

After the game, coaches and teammates showered Merriweather with praise. According to Whitehurst, "He (Merriweather) was essential. When we needed a play, we went to him. He stepped up and met the challenge."

"He's been a spark for us running the ball," said then-Tiger Offensive Coordinator Mike O'Cain. "He runs very, very hard and he breaks tackles. That's what you must have."

But the biggest compliments probably came from the fans, whether in the Orange Bowl that November evening or in Death Valley, and it consisted of just a few simple words.

"Reggie, Reggie, Reggie."

In his greatest game as a Tiger, Reggie Merriweather rushed for three touchdowns in Clemson's overtime victory at #9 Miami (FL) in 2004.

National Overtime Notes

- Missouri has the most overtime wins (9). Those Tigers are 9-3 in overtime. They won at least one overtime game five consecutive years between 2001-05, the only school to win at least one overtime game in five consecutive seasons.
- Fresno State has played the most overtime games (13). The Bulldogs are 5-8 since the rule came into effect for the 1996 season. Kansas State and Texas have played the fewest with one apiece.
- Buffalo has played the most overtime games in a season. It played four (3-1) in 2008.
- The first Division I overtime game was played at the Las Vegas Bowl on December 14, 1995. Toledo defeated Nevada 40-37.
- Entering this season, there were 421 overtime games since the rule came into effect and the team won the coin toss opted to go on defense first 417 times. Only once did a team opt to go on offense first and win the game. That was Nebraska over Missouri in 1997.
- South Florida (6-0) and Louisiana-Monroe (5-0) are the only schools with a perfect overtime record.
- Southern Methodist has the most overtime losses in history (1-10).
- The most overtime games in the country in one year was 39 in 2005, while the fewest was 18 in 2001.
- The most overtimes in a game is seven. It has taken place three times and Arkansas has been involved in two of the three. Arkansas defeated Mississippi 58-56 in 2001, Arkansas defeated Kentucky 71-63 in 2003, and North Texas downed Florida International 25-22 in 2006. It is interesting to note that the NCAA basketball record for overtime periods is also seven (Cincinnati vs. Bradley in 1981).
- The most points scored by both teams at the end of regulation in the overtime-game era is 52. Akron and Eastern Michigan were tied 52-52 going into overtime on November 24, 2001. Akron went on to win in three overtimes 65-62.
- The most combined points by both teams in an overtime game is 136. Boise State beat Nevada 69-67 in four overtimes on October 14, 2007. The most combined points in a regulation game is also 136. Navy beat North Texas 74-62 on November 10, 2007.

CLEMSON'S OVERTIME HISTORY

When Clemson and Miami (FL) battle on the gridiron today, an NCAA first could occur. It is a record that Tiger Head Coach Dabo Swinney and Hurricane Head Coach Randy Shannon probably do not want to see happen, because it is a record that will not be good for their respective blood pressures.

Clemson and Miami have gone to overtime in each of the last three meetings and no series in Division I history has had four consecutive overtime meetings. The only other time a series has had three consecutive overtime affairs took place between 2004-06 when Central Michigan and Eastern Michigan played three straight overtime games.

The Hurricanes joined the ACC in 2004 and each of the three meetings between Clemson and Miami since have gone at least one extra session. Clemson won 24-17 at Miami in 2004, then the Hurricanes won in triple overtime at Memorial Stadium in 2005 by a score of 36-30. That is the longest game in Clemson history in terms of overtime periods.

Clemson was victorious over #8 Miami by a score of 40-37 at Sun Life Stadium last season. That victory in Miami Gardens was Clemson's first overtime victory since the 2004 win over the Hurricanes in the same vicinity, but at a different stadium (Orange Bowl). Clemson has had a streaky history when it comes to overtime games.

The NCAA adopted the overtime rule for bowl games in 1995, then for all regular-season games in 1996. Clemson won its first five overtime games, and entering the 2005 season, the Tigers' 5-0 record was the best in the nation. The secret to the Tigers' success in those first five overtime games was their defense. Clemson did not give up a touchdown and allowed just one first down in its first five overtime contests. The opposition scored just nine points on three field goals in the six combined overtime periods, while Clemson scored 35 points on five touchdowns, two extra points, and a field goal.

Clemson then lost four straight overtime games played between 2005 and 2007, including two games to Boston College that eventually cost the Tigers a spot in the ACC title game each season.

The Tigers' first overtime game in history took place on November 8, 1997 in Memorial Stadium against Duke. It was actually the first overtime game in history involving two ACC teams. Clemson was playing without all-time leading rusher Raymond Priester, who was injured, and thus had to go to the air. Nealon Greene passed for 272 yards and Tony Horne had four catches for 119 yards and a touchdown, a 34-yard score on a bubble screen with just 6:12 remaining.

The game went into overtime and Duke won the coin toss and elected to go on defense first. The Blue Devils held the Tigers to a field goal by David Richardson. Then on Duke's possession, Rahim Abdullah intercepted a Bobby Campbell pass on third down and returned it 63 yards for a game-ending score. That gave Clemson a 29-20 win, the Tigers' largest margin of victory in history in an overtime game.

Clemson's next overtime game might have been one of the most exciting games in school history (see "The Last Word" on page 112 of today's program). The Tigers traveled to #9 Georgia Tech, coached by George O'Leary. The Yellow Jackets took a 19-7 lead behind quarterback George Godsey, who had led Georgia Tech to a 31-28 upset of an 8-0 Clemson team the year before.

A key play of the game took place on the last play of the first half. With just 10 seconds left and the Tigers on the Georgia Tech 38, Clemson quarterback Woodrow Dantzler looked to throw a "Hail Mary" pass to the endzone. However, everyone was covered, so Dantzler took off down the field. The greatest running quarterback in Woodrow Dantzler's 11-yard touchdown jaunt in overtime propelled the Tigers to a thrilling 47-44 win at Georgia Tech in 2001.

ACC history worked his way through the defense all the way to the endzone for the first "Hail Mary Run" in Clemson history. That cut the deficit to 19-14 at the half.

It was a track meet through the entire second half, with both teams putting together consistent scoring drives. It was a bleak situation for the Tigers with under 1:20 left. Clemson trailed 38-34 and had a fourth-and-13 at the Georgia Tech 37. Dantzler faded to pass and decided to go for a touchdown instead of just the 13 yards needed for a first down. To everyone's surprise, Tiger wide-out J.J. McKelvey got behind the defense and was in the clear. Dantzler hit him in stride, and 63 yards later, Clemson took a 41-38 lead.

However, Clemson could not stop Georgia Tech's offense and the Yellow Jackets tied the score 41-41 on a field goal with six seconds left.

Clemson won the coin toss for overtime and Georgia Tech drove to the Clemson 16. But on third-and-one, the Tiger defensive line stopped Joe Burns, who had scored a winning touchdown against the Tigers on a short run in 1998. Georgia Tech then kicked a field goal on fourth down.

On Clemson's possession, the Tigers faced a third-and-six from the 11. Again it was Dantzler, this time on a designed run (quarterback draw). He made one move to the right and darted into the endzone, giving Clemson a 47-44 victory. Dantzler was named national back-of-the-week by USA Today for his performance that included 164 rushing yards and 254 passing yards for 418 yards of total offense, still the third-highest figure by a Tiger in history.

Clemson won three straight overtime games with Charlie Whitehurst under center in 2003 and 2004, a record for one Tiger signal-caller. He threw the winning touchdown pass in two of the games. On October 11, 2003, Whitehurst lofted a four-yard pass on a fade pattern to 6'5" wide receiver Kevin Youngblood, who made a leaping, game-winning touchdown reception to give the Kyle Browning's 11-yard touchdown catch and run lifted the Tigers to a 37-30 victory over Wake Forest in the 2004 season-opener.

Tigers a 30-27 win over Virginia. The game was a matchup of future NFL quarterbacks, as Matt Schaub, now with the Houston Texans, quarterbacked the Cavaliers that day. Whitehurst is now with the Seattle Seahawks.

The next year in the season-opener against Wake Forest, Whitehurst threw a an 11-yard scoring pass to Kyle Browning on Clemson's second overtime possession to give the Tigers a 37-30 lead. The defense then held the Demon Deacons out of the endzone. It was the first double-overtime victory for the Tigers.

In the middle of the 2004 season, Whitehurst again quarterbacked the Tigers to an overtime victory, this time at #10 Miami. In a game that rekindled National Championship memories for Tiger fans, Clemson defeated the Hurricanes 24-17 in overtime in the Orange Bowl. Reggie Merriweather was the offensive star, as he scored three touchdowns, including the go-ahead score in the first overtime. Tye Hill then batted down a Brock Berlin pass in the endzone on fourth down to give the Tigers the victory.

Miami returned the favor at Clemson the following season in a triple-overtime thriller. Many Clemson fans will tell you Death Valley was never more electric than it was that September 17, 2005 day. Late in the game when Charles Bennett sacked Kyle Wright, the decibel reading in Death Valley was 125, one of the highest on record at any stadium.

Clemson tied the score on a field goal by Jad Dean with just 15 seconds remaining after a third-down pass in the endzone from Whitehurst to an open Chansi Stuckey was a bit long. The Hurricanes had sent the house on a blitz and the strategy made the difference, as they got just enough pressure on Whitehurst to force the incompletion.

The overtime period was one big play after another by both teams. Whitehurst connected with Curtis Baham for a touchdown pass that sent the game into a second overtime. Both teams then kicked field goals in the second overtime. But in the end, it was a 25-yard run by Miami's Tyrone Moss that proved to be the game-winner and the #13 Hurricanes earned the 36-30 win over #20 Clemson.

The Tigers lost the next week to Boston College in overtime by a 16-13 score, then lost at Boston College 34-33 in 2006 and to Auburn in the 2008 Chick-fil-A Bowl by a score of 23-20.

Clemson broke the four-game overtime losing streak last year at Miami with the 40-37 victory on a 26-yard touchdown pass from Kyle Parker to Jacoby Ford. There were nine lead changes in the game, the most in a game in Tiger history. C.J. Spiller had a then-school-record 310 all-purpose yards to lead the offense, while DeAndre McDaniell had a resumé game with two interceptions, including a 23-yard interception return for a touchdown that might have been the biggest momentum swinger in a game of momentum changes.

Earlier this season on September 18 at Auburn, Clemson held Auburn three-and-out on its overtime possession before Wes Byrum made a 39-yard field goal. On Clemson's possession, it gained a first down and later faced a third-and-five at the Auburn eight. Parker rolled right and spotted Jaron Brown open in the endzone for a potential game-winning touchdown. But the ball was off Brown's fingertips and fell incomplete. The subsequent field-goal attempt was wide-left and Auburn escaped with the 27-24 win.

Will a new chapter be authored to Clemson's overtime history today? We aren't sure about overtime, but a look to the talent on both teams on the gridiron today indicates it should be a very competitive game, one that has a major impact on the final ACC standings in November.

Charlie Whitehurst directed Clemson to a 24-17 overtime win at #10 Miami (FL) in 2004.

At #8 Miami (FL) on October 24, 2009, C.J. Spiller (#28) had 310 all-purpose yards to help send the game into overtime. Then in the extra session, Jacoby Ford (#6) hauled in a 26-yard touchdown reception to give Clemson a dramatic 40-37 win. It was the third meeting in a row between the Tigers and Miami decided in overtime.

MOTHER-OF-THE-YEAR BETTY MCGREGOR

Betty McGregor is no stranger to raising children. The 80-year-old is a mother of five successful children and a grandmother of eight. A native of Cameron, SC, the 2010 Tiger Brotherhood Mother-of-the-Year now lives in Hopkins, SC with her husband, Sam, on a small dairy farm. The farm is much quieter now that all of their children have grown and moved away, but it was once alive with the hustle and bustle of family living.

The story of the McGregor Family began in the early 1950s. After graduating from Columbia College in 1951, Betty married Sam, who had graduated from Clemson just two years earlier. Shortly after they wed, Sam was called to active duty at Fort Benning. The couple lived in a house trailer at the base until after their first child, Lib, was born. A few years and two moves later, the family ended up on the dairy farm where they still reside today.

"We had the best of two worlds (on the farm)," said McGregor.

The family lived less than 10 miles from Columbia, SC, so not only did the children have responsibilities on the farm, they also enjoyed the benefits of living near a large city. All of the children played sports growing up and each one either worked on the farm or held a summer job.

One of McGregor's parenting philosophies was, "you have to treat each child as an individual," she said. "Each one excels in something, and you have to honor and support them in whatever it is that they excel in."

Because of their mother's gentle encouragement, all of the McGregor children have excelled in their adult lives. Elizabeth, McGregor's first-born, attended Agnes Scott and Columbia Seminary and is now the senior pastor at Davidson College Presbyterian Church. McGregor's second daughter, Jean, went to Presbyterian College and Medical University of South Carolina. She now works as a nurse/surgeon's assistant.

James, "Jimmy" as his mother calls him, was the first of the McGregor children to follow in his father's footsteps and attend Clemson. He works for ExxonMobil and gets to travel all over the world. Johnny, the couple's fourth child, also attended Clemson. After graduation, he attended Louisiana State to obtain a master's degree, and then he attended Mississippi State for his doctorate degree. He returned to Clemson to teach and, according to his mother, is "helping students make that good Clemson ice cream."

Sam, Jr., the youngest of the five children, graduated from Clemson and went to Columbia Seminary. He is currently working on his doctorate degree and is senior pastor at Allison Creek Presbyterian Church in Rock Hill, SC. Of McGregor's eight grandchildren, two work for NASA, one works for a nonprofit organization, one is in college, and three are still in grade school.

McGregor credits a large part of the children's success to growing up in a solid Christian home. "Church has always been an important part of our lives," McGregor said.

Every morning, she and her husband read "The Daily Bread" together, and each day they focus their prayers on one specific child. "Monday is Lib's day. Tuesday is Jean's (day). Wednesday is Jimmy's (day). Thursday is Johnny's (day). And Friday is Sammy's (day). That is their day, exclusively. They know they are very special on those days."

McGregor also believes that the strong, loving relationship with her husband set a good example for the children. "When you show love and respect to your spouse, your children see that as a model that they incorporate into their married lives," explained McGregor.

After Sam retired, he started cooking breakfast for his wife every morning. "We are still sweethearts after 60 years," smiled McGregor.

The love McGregor has for her family is obvious to all those around her, and in 2009, it was obvious to the convention attendees at the American Mothers, Inc. National Convention, where she was selected National Mother-of-the-Year. She spent most of her time in the position traveling across the country and sharing her experiences and philosophies with other mothers. She even had her name inscribed on a plaque at the Waldorf Astoria, a very special experience for a humble dairy-farmer's wife.

Although she did not attend Clemson, her ties to the school run deep. With seven alumni in the family, including her husband, one can imagine that she has spent plenty of time visiting the campus over the years. In addition, as president of the South Carolina Family & Community Leaders Board, she has worked with the Clemson Cooperative Extension Service. She also represented South Carolina at the world conference in South Africa.

"It was a tremendous experience for me to go to South Africa and meet with other women and hear their concerns from around the world," stated McGregor.

Today, family is still important to all of the McGregor clan. Though most have moved significant distances away from home, they try to get the whole family together as often as possible. That may be more difficult in the coming years, however, as she and her husband plan to move from their three-acre farm to a moderate patio home.

For now, they remain a tight-knit group. In fact, 20 of the 21 family members are in attendance today to watch McGregor "dot the i" when the band spells out "Tigers" on the field before the game, an event she is extremely excited about.

"Being chosen to 'dot that i' is one of the most exciting things in my life," she said.

The experience will be an event that she will always remember as a highlight in her life, just as those who have known Betty McGregor will remember her as a highlight in their lives.

TIM BOURRET'S

MOST EXCITING GAMES

Almost immediately after Clemson's 40-37 overtime victory over #8 Miami (FL) in Sun Life Stadium last year, players, coaches, and Clemson fans asked me, "Was that the greatest Clemson game you have ever seen?"

I have seen 369 of the last 386 Clemson football games dating to 1978 and have a streak of 223 in a row. That overall streak of 223 is not even halfway to Bob Bradley's incredible streak of 502 in a row between 1955-00.

However, I guess I am the ranking historian in the athletic department on these types of questions.

My first inclination right after that thrilling victory last year was, "Yes." And nearly a year later after letting the game set in my mind, I still have the same answer.

Now there are some qualifiers. First, when I say great-est game, I mean competitive, thrilling game. Therefore, great performances by the Tigers are not on this list. When Clemson beat ACC Champion Maryland in 1983 by a score of 52-27, a game the Tigers led 42-7 before Head Coach Danny Ford called off the Tigers in the third quarter, that was a great Clemson performance. It would rank among the top-10 performances I have seen by a Tiger team.

But when it comes to just a great game, the Miami game last year stands at the top for me since I first set foot on the Clemson campus on September 1, 1978. Last year's game had all the elements you look for in a great game.

First, there were nine lead changes, more than any game in school history. When you look at the boxscore, you will see that no team had consecutive scores, a remarkable statistic.

Second, there were landmark performances. C.J. Spiller gained 310 all-purpose yards, then a Tiger single-game record. His 90-yard kickoff return for a touchdown just before halftime was a huge play, but he also had 81 yards on 14 carries, including a 48-yard run that led to a score. He also finished with 104 receiving yards, just the fifth 100-yard receiving game by a Tiger running back in history.

Michael Palmer had five catches for 74 yards and a touchdown before being knocked out on a viscous hit in the third quarter. He was the recipient of the Mackey Award National Player-of-the-Week, which goes to the top tight end in the nation each week. DeAndre McDaniel was named national defensive player-of-the-week by the Bronko Nagurski Award Committee for his two interceptions, including one he returned for a touchdown, and seven tackles.

Third, there were great storylines. Spiller had his record-setting day in front of his father, who was seeing him play in person for the first time. The Tigers were playing in the Miami area, where it had won the National Championship 29 years earlier. And a freshman quarterback, Kyle Parker, had taken Clemson to victory over an #8-ranked team on the road, just the second road win in school history over a top-eight team.

Fourth, the game was won in dramatic walkoff fashion. Clemson had held the Hurricanes to a field goal on their overtime possession. Then the Tigers faced a third-and-11 from the 26. An incomplete pass would have forced a 43-yard field-goal attempt just to tie the game.

However, Ford had told the Clemson coaches he could get open over the middle against his defender. The play was drawn up on the sidelines and Parker connected with Ford in stride for the game-winner.

Finally, the game had consequences. Clemson entered the contest with a 3-3 overall record, including just 2-2 in the ACC. If Clemson was going to make a run to the ACC Championship contest, it had to have this game. Miami, who finished the season 6-1 at home in 2009, was ranked #8 in the country and had shocked the nation with victories over Oklahoma and Georgia Tech. In the end, Clemson got to the ACC Championship game and Miami did not.

Below is a complete list of my top-10 most exciting games since I first came to Clemson in 1978.
